Bentsen rally short of expectations

By RON PORTER

Texas Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen brought his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination into Southeast Missouri Thursday with a political rally he had hoped would give a large boost to his chances.

But only about 2,000 people showed up for the rally at the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo Grounds — far short of the 15,000 hoped for by Bentsen's staff.

The rally was the first held by the Bentsen campaign, and George Bristol, the senator's campaign finance director, said the campaign leaders were not discouraged by the low turnout. He said the staff members felt they had learned a lot and were optimistic about the future of their campaign.

Bentsen has been in Southeast Missouri four times so far, and Bristol promised he would be back several more times.

Prior to the rally, 160 people paid $100 apiece to attend a reception for the senator at the Joel Montgomery home on Highway 61 North.

Bentsen criticized the comparison President Gerald Ford made between himself and former Preisdent Harry Truman. Truman would not have tolerated today's economic conditions, Bentsen said.

He said Truman would have found solutions to the problems, but "all we get are vetoes."

Bentsen also warned against misunderstanding detente with the Soviet Union. Russia is still a strong competitor, he said.

We should negotiate from a position of strength and get an even deal, he said. What he wants to stop, he said, is what recently happened. While President Ford was in Finland signing the treaty composed at the European Security Conference, the Russians were pouring millions of dollars into Portugal trying to bring a Communist Party to power.

We can turn this country around if we have leadership, Bentsen said.

At a press conference earlier in the day, Bentsen urged caution in the sale of wheat to the Sovet Union. If America has a surplus of grain, it should be made available, he said. But he added if there is no surplus, there should be no sale.

Bentsen said he was the first senator to speak on the Senate floor against the first U.S.-Russian wheat deal.

Among the changes in agriculture Bentsen would make would be appointing a secretary of agriculture interested in the farmer, he said.

The union boycott of Russian-bound wheat should be dealt with by the courts, Bentsen added.

Bentsen said he favored a phased decontrol of oil prices with provisions against windfall taxes.

Bentsen promised that Congress would have an energy bill when it returned from recess. Among its provisions, he said, will be an amendment he offered for establishing a federal energy bank to finance the search for new sources of energy.

But he does not think the United States will ever be totally self-sufficient in energy. The best the country can do is have enough energy to survive another oil boycott, he said.

We should be interested in oil shale, coal, geothermal and solar energy, Bentsen said, indicating that he supports tax incentives for installation of solar energy systems in homes and businesses.

The price of natural gas should be deregulated to encourage new drilling to head off future shortages, he added.

The United States is an overregulated society and we need a new Hoover Commission to streamline and consolidate existing agencies, Bentsen said.

The country spends $18 billion a year filling out governmental forms, he said.

Bentsen said his campaign theme will be more jobs and a better economy.

As President, he said he would try to influence the Federal Reserve Board to increase the money supply and lower interest rates.

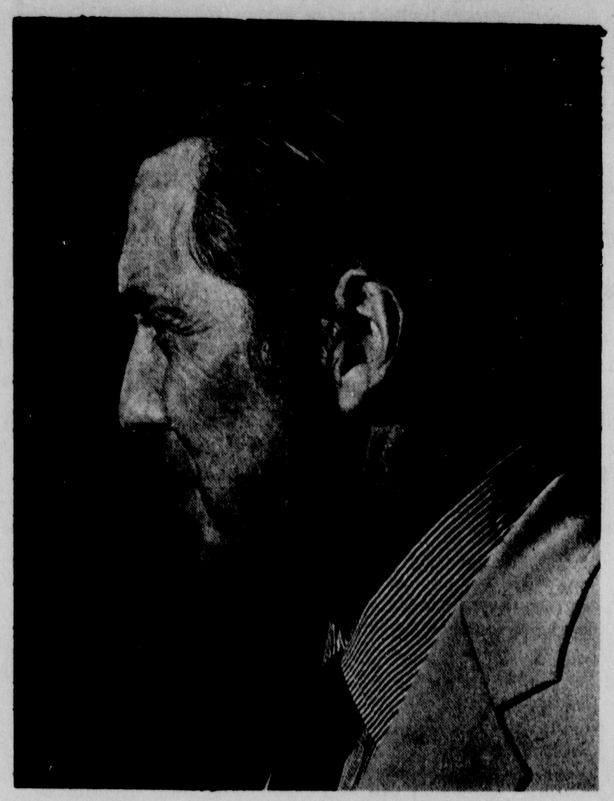

He would have a housing bill for long-term mortgages, a job bill, more manpower and skills training and more research and development in the field of agriculture.

Both recession and inflation are dangerous to the country, but Bentsen said he thinks the country can pull out of the recession and reduce inflation with the proper leadership.

Bentsen said Alabama Gov. George Wallace will not be a candidate in 1976, either as a Democraat or as an independent. Wallace expresses the frustrations of many people, he said, but by next year the people will be looking for someone with answers to the problems.

Bentsen has said in the past that he would not support Wallace for the presidency.

A number of prominent politicians attended the rally, including former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, Rep. Jerry Litton of Chillicothe, State Sen. William Cason of Clinton, secretary of State James Kirkpatrick and a number of state representatives and local Democratic politicians.

4 killed in area auto accidents

Four persons were killed and one person received minor injuries in three area traffic accidents Thursday, the highway patrol announced today. The deaths raised the fatality total on Southeast Missouri roads this year to 72, compared to 75 during the same period in 1974.

Three persons were killed in a two- car accident at 10:40 p.m. Thursday three miles north of Qulin on the Black River bridge on Highway 53.

The accident occurred when a northbound car driven by Gary Allen House, 40, of St. Louis crossed the center line and collided head on with a southbound car driven by Vearl C. Stotts, 34, of Memphis,Tenn.

Both drivers and a passenger in the House car, Kenneth B.

Doctor questions medical survey

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A medical researcher at the University of Missouri has questioned the value of a survey being conducted by the state Health Division to determine if there are levels of heavy metal in the blood of children living in the Missouri Lead Belt.

The division announced Thursday that research teams had begun collecting samples of blood, urine and hair from children 1 through 5 years old in the areas around the three major lead smelters in the state.

But Dr. Mostapa Fahim, who has released preliminary results of a study he had done last year that showed a close relationship between living in the lead belt and being susceptible to mental retardation, contended that such surveys do not provide answers to questions about the source of the metal or its physical effects.

"These studies have been done before," he said. "So what? You don't know what is the cause and what is the effect."

Dr. H. Denny Donnell said the project, being conducted as part of a federally funded survey of heavy metal level checks in children living near smelters throughout the country, is only intended to gather information for future use.

"If excessive levels of heavy metal absorption are found, a more extensive study will be initiated to determine the source of heavy metal and the method of absorption," he said. "There's a fairly obvious question. There's a source of the material. Is it getting into the people?"

Blood, urine and hair samples will be taken from 50 to 100 children in each area around the St. Joseph Mineral Co. smelter in Herculaneum, the American Smelting and Refining Co. smelter near Glover and the Amax Lead Co. smelter in Bixby during the next two months.

The survey was apparently prompted by the results of tests last year on 1,000 children living near the Bunker Hill Co. smelter in Kellogg, Idaho, which showed abnormally high lead levels in their blood.

The health officials conducting those tests said the results suggested a "national emergency" and urged similar testing on all children living near smelters.

But Fahim contended the level of metal in the bloodstream does not necessarily mean anything since some persons can be unaffected by a level that could be detrimental to others.

Matthews festival begins Tuesday

MATTHEWS — Contests for the crowning of Little Mister and Little Miss Matthews and Miss Matthews that are scheduled Tuesday night will kick off the annual fall festival next week, sponsored by the Matthews Volunteer Fire Department and Firettes.

Proceeds from the festival are used to pay for insurance on the city's fire truck and the volunteer firemen.

Both contests will be held in the Matthews School gymnasium, with the junior royalty contest starting at 7 p.m. and the Miss Matthews Contest immediately following.

Featured attractions Thursday will be a kiddie parade at 7 p.m. and the opening of the carnival midway provided by Big J Amusements.

This year's midway will have eight rides, including three for small youngsters. Other planned activities will be cake walks and the awarding of prizes by random drawing.

Prizes to be awarded Thursday night include an AM-FM digital clock radio, a crock pot and a large ice chest.

Friday night, a 10-piece cookware set and an electric grill will be awarded. Grand prizes of a 12-inch portable black and white television and a combination stereo set will be awarded Saturday night.

Saturday afternoon a grand parade will feature the newly crowned royalty, high school marching bands from New Madrid, Parma, Lilbourn and Matthews and other novelty entries. The parade will begin at 4 p.m.

A street dance Saturday night will be the closing activity.

2 file for Matthews marshal

MATTHEWS — Two candidates filed for the city marshal's office that will be filled in a special city election Sept. 9 and a three man race developed for the police judge's post before the close of filing Thursday.

Clyde Anglin, who has been serving as marshal by appointment, is being opposed by Hubert Bewely to an elected term that will expire next April.

Police judge candidates include Charles Beard, Robert Carlisle, and F. E. Story. The police judge has been an appointiveposition, however the City Council approved making it an elective office upon recommendation by legal counsel Tommy Romine, who is currently serving by appointment and who did not seek the office.

Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the City Hall in ward one and at the community building in ward two.

Ross is new Stoddard deputy

BLOOMFIELD — Jim Ross, 30, of Dexter has been hired as a deputy by the Stoddard County Sheriff's Department to fill a position vacated by Jim Teeters, who recently resigned to become chief of police at Dexter.

Ross has had formal police training at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau andthrough extension courses from the University of Missouri.

He has served as an auxiliary policeman with the police department and had served as a special deputy for the Stoddard County Sheriff's Department for two years.

Ross, who is single, was born and reared in Dexter.

Italian senator visits county

BENTON An Italian senator was given a guided tour of the Scott County Courthouse and jail Thursday.

Sen. Umberto Donati of Rome, secretary to the majority party leader in the Italian Senate, and Mario Corradi, his U.S. State Department interpreter, visited the county offices.

Donati, who is touring several U.S. states and cities, came to Benton from New Orleans.

When asked what impressed him about this country, Donati said his impression is positive and that he thinks rural areas are the backbone of the United States.

New levies to be submitted

BENTON — Scott County school superintendents were told by County Clerk Bob Kielhofner Thursday that the overall increase of real estate and personal property assessments for the county will be more than 10 per cent.

Under present state law, when the increase exceeds the previous year's assessment more than 10 per cent after the rate of the school levy has been certified, the school levy must be revised and lowered sufficiently to produce substantially the same amount of taxes as previously estimated.

Kielhofner said he superintendents indicated they would submit new levies as required.

No publication Monday

The Daily Standard will not be published Monday in observance of Labor Day, a national holiday.

Publication will resume Tuesday.

All federal, state and local governmental offices will also be closed Monday and mail delivery will be suspended for that day.

No serious problem posed

Rats attract attention

BLOOMFIELD — Although a study by the state Department of Public Health and Welfare has found them to pose no problem, field rats living along Highway 25 between Dexter and Bernie are continuing to attract a lot of public attention, especially from newspapers and broadcasting stations, according to Stoddard County Clerk John Marvin Capps.

Capps said he has received numerous calls, but none have been of a complaining nature and no one living in the area where the rats are found has filed any kind of formal complaint.

"Most of the calls are from newspapers," he said.

The furor over the rats has even reached California. The Dexter Police Department recently reported that a California newspaper had called the department, seeking information about the rats.

Many of the calls Capps receives, however, are from persons selling rat poison or exterminating services.

One person even offered to kill all the rates or charge the county nothing for the job if he did not succeed. Capps said it was an attractive offer although the county did not take it up because "it's not our property."

"If it was on our property," Capps continued, "something would already have been done about it."

It has been determined that the area inhabited by the rats is owned by Cotton Belt Railroad Co. Brush and undergrowth in the area have been allowed to grow up and fall over year after year, forming excellent cover for the rats.

The county has contacted the railroad, which responded this week in a letter to the court.

"This matter has not heretofore come to our attention," Roy Cosper, general solicitor for the railroad firm, said in the letter. "I have referred your letter to our superintendent at Pine Bluff, Ark., with the request that he investigate and undertake to remedy the matter."

The Division of Health investigation advises that if the ground cover is destroyed, the problem will be solved.

Most people in the county seem to agree that the rates are not a serious problem. Much reaction to the rats seems to be laughter. Several have offered suggestion as to how to get rid of the little creatures.

One county agency informed Capps, after receiving a publicity brochure from him about rat traps and rat poison, that it had a better plan.

"We have already purchased flutes which we will use," the agency told Capps in a letter. "We are quite sure we can 'pipe and charm' the little devils into Dunklin County.

"You should receive a statement from Jay's Music for the flutes," the letter continued. "They did agree to cheerfully refund our money in case they

Hale charged in shooting

EAST PRAIRIE — A charge of felonious assault with intent to do great bodily harm was filed this morning against Joseph "Tom" Hale, 40, of East Prairie in connection with a shooting incident Thursday night involving Hale's son and wife.

Steve Hale, 16, was shot in the foot underwent surgery Thursday night in Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston. Mrs. Boris Hale was struck in the leg by pellets from the same blast which was fired through a sliding glass door, according to Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie.

The shooting occurred about 9:15 p.m. Thursday at Mrs. Hale's home in Powers Addition west of town on Highway 80.

According to Hale's statement, he had gone to the home and was attempting to open the door when the gun discharged. However, Ivie said he had received a call from Mrs. Hale about an hour before the shooting, saying her hussband had called and threatened to shoot her.

The Hales, who are separated but not divorced, reportedly have had trouble over money for child support.

Statements from Mrs. Hale and two young daughters, who were present at the time of the shooting, were not available this morning.

Following the shooting, Hale reportedly left the scene in his car. Law enforcement officials, including sheriff's deputies, East Prairie police and auxiliary officers and the highway patrol were conducting a search for Hale when he turned himself in about 11 p.m. at the city hall.

Hale was taken to Mississippi County jail in Charleston, where he is in custody under $5,000 bond.

Encephalitis cases suspected in area

Two more cases of suspected encephalitis in Southeast Missouri have been reported and a third possible case has been ruled out.

Encephalitis has been ruled out in the illness of Sikeston Fire Chief L. D. Ramsey. Tests for the disease have been run on Ramsey, but his son Jim said today encephalitis is no longer being considered.

Ramsey is scheduled to be transferred to a Memphis hospital today.

The two other cases which are suspected, but not confirmed, involve a Benton man who died Sunday and an elderly Perryville man.

Last week the state Division of Health said a Perryville woman was b eing treated for suspected encephalitis and an elderly Campbell man died July 18 of the disease.

At least one community, Morley, has used aerial spraying to control the mosquito problem. The city was sprayed by air Wednesday night.

The cost of such spraying in Sikeston, however, would be prohibitively expensive, unless there were a serious threat of disease City Manager Charles Church said.

It costs about $1.20 an acre to spray for mosquitos. Sikeston has 7,800 acres within its city limits, which means the cost of spraying would be over $9,000 for each application.

Mosquito control is largely ineffective in a local situation, Church said.

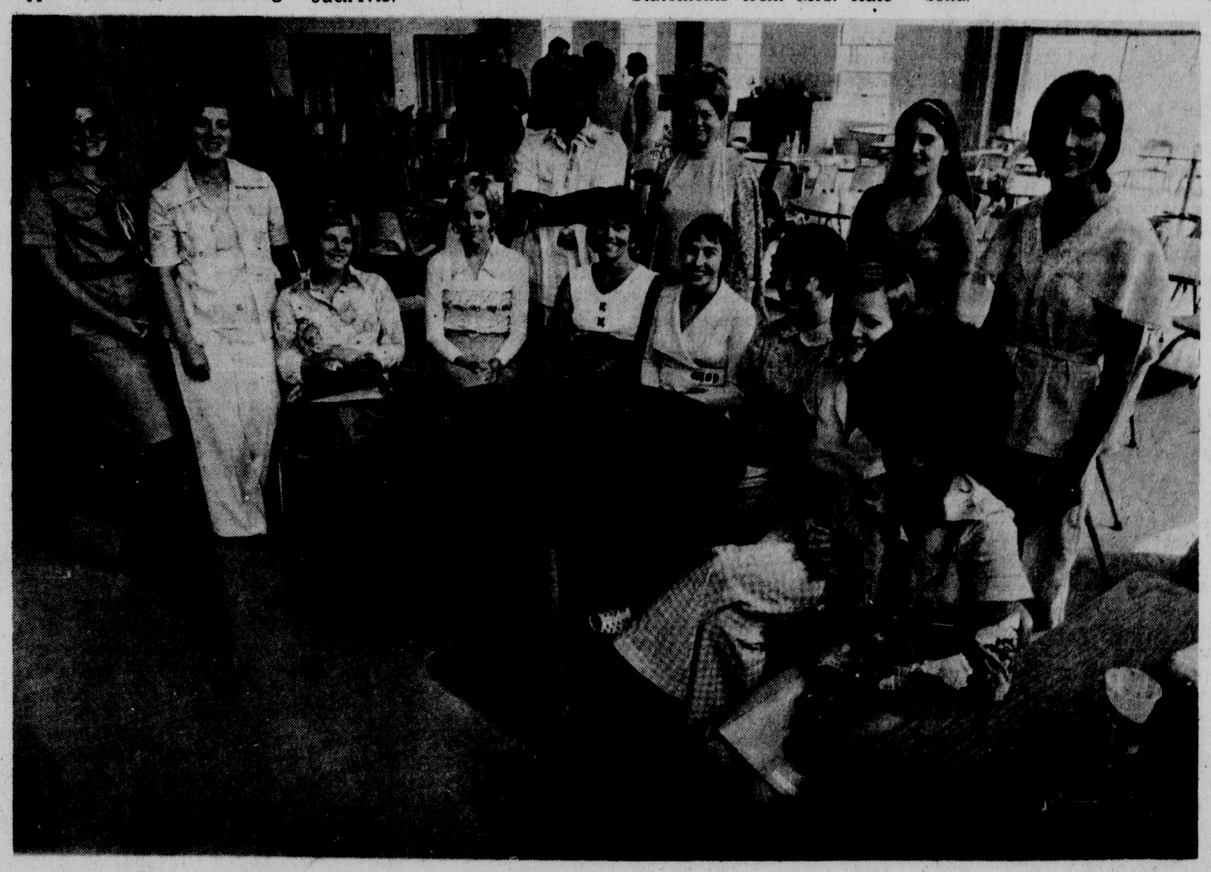

"Mosquitoes don't observe city limits," he said.

To control the mosquito population in Sikeston, all of New Madrid, Mississippi and Scott counties would have to be sprayed.

The cost would be unbelievable, Church said, and repeated spraying would be necessary.

The city is continuing its fogging program, Church said.

He suggested that people take preventive measures to keep from being bitten by mosquitoes, such as using mosquito repellant, cutting weeds, and not going outside at night.

Bentsen rally short of expectations

By RON PORTER

Texas Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen brought his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination into Southeast Missouri Thursday with a political rally he had hoped would give a large boost to his chances.

But only about 2,000 people showed up for the rally at the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo Grounds — far short of the 15,000 hoped for by Bentsen's staff.

The rally was the first held by the Bentsen campaign, and George Bristol, the senator's campaign finance director, said the campaign leaders were not discouraged by the low turnout. He said the staff members felt they had learned a lot and were optimistic about the future of their campaign.

Encephalitis cases suspected in area

Two more cases of suspected encephalitis in Southeast Missouri have been reported and a third possible case has been ruled out.

Encephalitis has been ruled out in the illness of Sikeston Fire Chief L. D. Ramsey. Tests for the disease have been run on Ramsey, but his son Jim said today encephalitis is no longer being considered.

Ramsey is scheduled to be transferred to a Memphis hospital today.

The two other cases which are suspected, but not confirmed, involve a Benton man who died Sunday and an elderly Perryville man.

Last week the state Division of Health said a Perryville woman was b eing treated for suspected encephalitis and an elderly Campbell man died July 18 of the disease.

At least one community, Morley, has used aerial spraying to control the mosquito problem. The city was sprayed by air Wednesday night.

The cost of such spraying in Sikeston, however, would be prohibitively expensive, unless there were a serious threat of disease City Manager Charles Church said.

It costs about $1.20 an acre to spray for mosquitos. Sikeston has 7,800 acres within its city limits, which means the cost of spraying would be over $9,000 for each application.

Mosquito control is largely ineffective in a local situation, Church said.

"Mosquitoes don't observe city limits," he said.

To control the mosquito population in Sikeston, all of New Madrid, Mississippi and Scott counties would have to be sprayed.

The cost would be unbelievable, Church said, and repeated spraying would be necessary.

The city is continuing its fogging program, Church said.

He suggested that people take preventive measures to keep from being bitten by mosquitoes, such as using mosquito repellant, cutting weeds, and not going outside at night.

One of the less earthshaking, though nonetheless instructiv, examples of detente in action came out at the recent Helsinki European Security Conference when West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt announced that he and Polish leaders had wrapped up a long delayed agreement to swap German financial aid for the repatriation of ethnic Germans from Poland.

In return for a Polish promise to permit some 125,000 Germans living in Poland to go to West Germany, the West Germans agreed to grant $384 million to Poland in financial credits and also to give a lump sum of $500 million to cover pensions claims of other Germans still living in Poland.

Communist Poland, it would seem, makes out very well on this exchange. A large number of now elderly Germans are finally allowed to leave for their homeland, in return for which, a nearly $900 million payment was handed over by West Germany.

Schmidt hailed the agreement as a new step in "improving relations" between Germany and Poland. Perhaps so, but the idea that large numbers of people should be held in a country against their will and their freedom to leave secured only by the paying of what is, in effect, a ransom, is repugnant to our Western concepts of dignity, justice, and freedom.

McKINLEY OR DENALI?

Should the name of North America's highest mountain be changed from Mt. McKinley to Denali?

That is the question facing the Department of the Interior — or specifically, the department's Board on Geographic Names, which is responsible for uniform name usage on federal maps and other publications.

William McKinley, of course, was the 25th president of the United States, though his name was actually bestowed on the mountain by a prospector (who was evidently a staunch Republican) in 1896 when McKinley was still just a nominee for the presidency.

But who was Denali? Well, Denali, it seems, is a tanana Indian name measuring "the big one," and for some reason the Alaska legislature last March passed a joint resolution requesting the Department of the Interior to make that name official. McKinley's memory would still be honored by changing Mt. McKinley National Park to just plain McKinley National Park.

The Board on Georgraphic Names now has the task of deciding for or against the resolution and is seeking public opinion on the matter. So far, says Donald J. Orth, one of the department's name specialists, they haven't received many responses.

ODD BEDFELLOWS CALL EPA COMMON FOE

Has the EPA—the Environental Protection Agency—grown a little too big for its breeches? Or is it that its breeches—its regulatory powers—were made too extensive in the first place?

It has always, of course, been advisable to take both the claims of the environmentalists and the counter-claims of their antagonists with more than a few grains of salt, although most Americans would probably prefer to err, if err we must, on the side of caution when it coems to their health and well-being.

Lately, however, the EPA has been coming under increasing fire, and it is coming from Capitol Hill as well as the hustings, and from impartial scientists as well as spokesmen for the chemical and other industries that have been most affected by the agency's decisions.

For example, a committee of the prestigious National Academy of Sciences recently concluded that "there is no convincing evidence that chemical pesticides can be replaced in the forseeable future....

"To the extent that regulation of agricultural chemicals is unnecessarily restrictive and sluggish in its administration, new research aimed at safer and more effective pest and disease control chemicals will be discouraged; and, over the long haul, the public will be the loser."

Already, it says, one effect of government regulation has been to put all but the larger companies in a situation where research costs are beyond their means.

The House Agricultural Committee has given the EPA three months to shape up its pesticide control program. "They are unreasonable and arbitrary," one member was quoted as saying, "and this is the only way we can apparently bring them to look at what they are doing."

During one session of the committee, Rep. Floyd J. Fithian (D-Ind.), told an EPA official that "I am concerned, as an environmentalist and a conservationist, that in the process of overstripping the balance of the legislation which created your agency you may kill the goose that lays the golden eggs....I am concerned as a conservationist about what you people are doing to the conservation movement in this country."

At the same time, there are reports of unrest in the lower ranks of the agency itself—too much politics and too little attention to the interests of the public.

There have been suggestions that a separate agency be set up to review EPA actions. Whether or not the cause of environmental protection requires yet another layer of government, whatever steps may be necessary should be taken to ensure that the wide authority granted such a vital agency as the EPA not be abused, misused, or possibly in some cases, unused.

VIOLATING YOUR MEDICAL PRIVACY

The right of privacy is just as fundamental to the independence of the American people as any other of the basic rights, including freedom of speech, press and assembly. Therefore, every citizen should be aware of, and deeply concerned by, a proposed new invasion by government into personal privacy in the field of medicine.

An amendment to the Social Security Act now requires the establishment of Professional Standards Review Organizations (PSROs) to evaluate the health care provided under federally-sponsored Medicare, Medicaid and child health programs. It empoers the government, through these PSROs, to examine patient records in doctors' offices. Until this law was passed, people were able to assume that what they told their doctor would go no further. Now, unless Congress acts to repeal, modify or reinterpret the law, this essential confidentiality of individual medical records will be destroyed. Medical spokesmen warn that these records will be computerized and become available to too many people. Lives could be ruined. As an example, an old and long-forgotten record of a nervous disorder or venereal disease might, if it became part of the public record, unjustifiably prejudice employment and job opportunities.

A physician has, since time immemorial, been bound to secrecy concerning his patient's ills. The tradition is as old as the Hippocratic Oath and is a principle of the medical provession's code of ethics. But the issue is not simply an economic or a moral one--it is medical. The very existence of a system which puts individual medical records into a computerized information bank open to the examination of many people will inevitably lower the quality of medieal care. A doctor cannot always properly treat a patient who is unable to speak frankly and in perfect confidence.

There must be some better way to evaluate health care procedures provided for under federally-financed programs. Opening a doctor's medical files on patients is a gross abuse of governmental power. It illustrates the mortal danger to freedom which is always implicit in expanded dependence on financial aid from government.

THE ANSWER IS BLOWIN' IN THE WIND

The government is going to spend $147,800 to find out if people would mind having windmills as neighbors.

That's the amount of a grant which the National Science Foundation and the Energy Research and Development Administration have made to the University of Illinois' Survey Research Laboratory for a year-long study of public reactions to windmills in five areas across the country, ranging from the heavily settled East Coast to the plains of Kansas to the Pacific Northwest.

The windmills in question are not the picturesque Dutch type, nor the once numerous farm windmills. Modern, high-efficiency windmills capable of contributing to the nation's energy budget would have wheels or vanes 75 to 100 feet in diameter mounted on slender towers 100 to 250 feet high. For maximum efficiency, they would have to be located in large numbers and occupy highly prominent positions.

"Whether the public will accept such modification of the landscape will be a major deciding factor in whether plans for using the wind to generate electrical energy can be implemented," says Prof. Robert Ferber, director of the laboratory.

For a lot less than $147,800, we can tell the researchers the answer already: If people get hungry enough for energy, they'll like windmills.

OUR GREATEST RESOURCE

In this age of stiff competition between nations, it doesn't make sense to waste effort and resources. When thinking of resources, most people conjure up visions of oil wells and forests, rivers, farmaldnd, mineral deposits and the like. This overlooks the fact that the most valuable resource which any nation has is the intelligence and ingenuity of its citizens, combined with the ability of its economic system to produce the goods and services that people need. It is hardly advantageous to have trees in a forest unless someone can make boards out of them to build homes. Oil in the ground, unless there is some way to transform it into gasolien at the local service station pump, is of little use. U.S.-style private enterprise working with the incentives, as well as the disciplines of the free market, is the greatest device ever created when it comes to providing jobs and turning out things people need to live reasonably comfortable and pleasant lives in the midst of relatively hostile natural surroundings. It is the greatest resource the nation has. We should take care of it.

XXX

PROTECTING OUR OWN

U.S. merchant ships must have protection from cutthroat rate-cutting practices of foreign flag carriers now imperiling the financial stability of the new U.S. merchant fleet to which American shipping lines, investors and government have committeed billions of dollars. The problem is described by the president of the American Institute of Merchant Shipping, Mr. James J. Reynolds.

Calling for immediate legislation to protect American merchant vessels, Mr. Reynolds says, "We now have--to the benefit of the nation--for the first time in this century the world's most technologically advanced and competitive cargoliner fleet...which is offering the U.S. shipper far better services than ever before. What happens? The foreigners are sending their ships to our ports and drastically cutting freight rates while skimming off the best high value cargoes in some trades. These practices must cease...or else the entire U.S.-flag cargoliner industry may suffer irreparable damage to the detriment of the national economy and defense." To meet this threat, Senator Daniel K. Inouye, chairman of the Senate Commerce Subcommittee on Foreign Commerce and Tourism, has introduced a bill which would allow the Federal Maritime Commission to reject the rate of a nonnational flag carrier found to be lower than the lowest rate of a "national-flag carrier" in the same trade.

Commenting on the proposed legislation, one shipping line official observes that it is "just what the doctor ordered" for combating the inroads on U.S.-flag shipping by communist countries whose merchant fleets are operated primarily for political purposes, regardless of financial loss. Clearly, in the harsh world of international commerce, domestic concepts of fair competition must remain on the beach when American vessels go to sea.

Who's A Jerk? Furthermore -- Cashless New York Faces Transit Strike Paralysis

NEW YORK — Just the other night the quiet man inside labor learned across the table, swung his fist down on my wrist (watch, too) and called the local Police Benevolent Assn. president, one Ken McFeeley, "a jerk."

The quiet man is a national ALF-CIO vice president, Mattie Guinan, president of the Transport Workers Union of America (TWU), whose San Francisco transit local was about to support the recent police and firefighters strike there with job action. Mind you, Guinan isn't opposed to citywide municipal strikes even if Babylonian paralysis turns big towns into painted cities upon a painted set.

"Mattie" merely questioned McFeeley's going out to the local airports with leaflets painting the Big Apple as "Fear City."

Guinan also questioned McFeeley's "labor credentials." And tactics. But the Transport leader was all for police strikes and transit stoppages if need be -- and says that he is working with State, County and Municipal Employees president Jerry Wurf in organizing drive to unionize the famed California state patrolmen.

I'll get back to the police soonest. But first, since the eyes of the world's (yes, the world's) investment bankers, national central banks, workers, labor leaders, mayors, governors and presidential candidates are on virtually bankrupt New York, it's Mattie Guinan who's up front. Tell you why.

How powerful 40,000-member transit Local 100 here has a contract expiring on March 31, 1976. The city is broke. Will Guinan's huge local ask the Transit Authority for an increase? Damn right. A "reasonable" one says the quiet man.

But what is reasonable in a cashless city? What is reasonable for a Transit Authority, with a big deficit, raising fares for millions of workers? Reasonable is in the ayes of the holders of union cards, they want more.

Would Mattie lead a strike? Would he shut down the city? Yes indeed, says he.

"Everything will come to a standstill," says Guinan. "We did it before and we'll do it again ... I am ready to go to jail again."

Guinan referred to the January 1966 strike. Some 12 days of subway and bus paralysis and chaos which then Mayor Lindsay handled like Don Quixote did his lance. That strike, federal authorities estimated, cost the nation over $2 billion, since New York is the hub of finance, commerce, transportation and distribution.

The cost of Guinan's "reasonable" TWU demands for his people can't be estimated. But the thrust of the philisophy is significant to all cities -- romantically called urban centers.

Virtually every municipal union is strategic. Or it wouldn't be a civil service union. There is talk of the non-strategic municipal unions -- paper shufflers. But these locals can paralyze the welfare system and thus incite thousands into the streets. They can hit a button or a computer and raise bridges, isolating a city, or cut a highway or stop processing raw sewage or empty hospitals. You name it. It's happened.

What now startles the public is the police or firefighters strikes. But they've only begun.

New York's 24,000- member Policemen's Benevolent Assn. president McFeeley, the "jerk" denounced by Guinan, is more the amateur than the fool. He's getting on-the-job training as a labor leader. He's new. He has a tough following. They're young. they want it yesterday. He has difficulty delivering tomorrow. So he flounders.

But he is a labor leader. The cops may carry guns but they do have a labor union. They've just begun to organize.

In Washington they've an "international" -- independent like the Teamsters. It's the International Conference of Police Associations (ICPA) -- linked with 550 police locals, slowly uniting some 200,000 policemen (and women) into a nationwide labor organization.

Leading them is an experienced organizer, Ed Kiernan, president. He shuttles around the nation like any other union chief.

When the Albuquerque, N.M., police struck for 10 days the ICPA backed them. They won a 23 per cent raise. And when San Francisco Police Officer's Associatoin president Jerry Crowley pulled his men off the street as though they were plumbers or garbage collectors, Kiernan called on all ICPA locals to back them, to pressure Mayor Alioto and to send money to police strike headquarters.

It will all get tougher if the Congress passes a public-sector right-to-strike bill. It's the beginning. What mayor can stand up against a police or transit or firefighters strike - or their political pressure? And what city can survive $30,000 a-year cops; $20,000-a-year street cleaners? Or the wage-fringe leapfrogging which will result? As someone said here: Mayor Abe Beame should put City Hall in his wife's name and head for the hills.

Washington Merry-Go-Round
By Jack Anderson

with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON--The State Department sees a "clear possibility that terrorists will use fright weapons," such as lasers, chemicals, biologicals, radiation and nuclear arms, to blackmail and perhaps destroy nations.

Although "such use is not inevitable," according to a State Department study, the technology is available to develop scare weapons and terrorists have the ability to steal them.

Still, the State Department holds out hope that "small radical groups" cannot acquire the hideous weapons and that "larger terrorist organizations" will be deterred from using them "by what would be an extremely severe response by the world community."

World opinion, however, has not deterred terrorists from committing small-scale outrages. Since 1968, terrorists have killed 500 people and have wounded another 600 to 800. Among the victims, 16 U.S. officials have been murdered and 32 have been wounded.

The terrorists have also managed to arm themselves with deadly, sophisticated weapons, including shoulder-fired Soviet missiles capable of knocking down airliners.

The State Department study confirms our past reports that Libya has been an important source of weapons for terrorist groups. On May 25, 1974, we called Libya's Muammar Qaddafi one of the world's most irresponsible leaders for arming terrorists, without much throught for the consequences.

The Soviets have sent huge arms shipments to Qaddafi who has supplied terrorist groups from Ireland to the Philippines. Meanwhile, he is trying to get his hands on tactical nuclear weapons.

Apparently, terrorist organizations work together through an international radical underground. "We have seen cooperation among terrorist groups in Latin America," states the study. "Additionally, there are indications of increasing cooperation among the Baader-Meinhof gang in West Germany, the so-called Japanese Red Army and Palestinian terrorist groups, particularly the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine."

Kidnaping has become a favorite terrorist tactic. The State Department cites a Rand Corporation study of 63 major diplomatic kidnaping efforts. In 87 per cent of the cases, the hostages were seized successfully. In 79 per cent of the cases, the kidnapers escaped punishment.

There have also been ominous intelligence reports that the international terrorists are plotting to zero in on the United States.

Footnote: The State Department conducted the study in response to questions from the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, which will publish the results shortly.

SOVIET GRAIN CONTROVERSY: The Soviets have asked Washington for permission to purchase another 11 million tons of grain. This would more than double the 9.8 million tons that have already been sold to Russia.

The total sale, if the new request is approved, would come close to 21 million tons--almost two million tons more than the controversial 1972 wheat deal.

Farm organizations are for approval of the Soviet request. The farmers contend that the government encouraged them to increase their planting this spring. The American wheat crop, therefore, is expected to surpass two billion bushels this year. Two-thirds of this must be sold overseas, the farmers claim. Otherwise, they will be stuck with huge surplus stocks and the bottom will fall out of the market.

The sale of another 11 million tons to Russia, on the other hand, will push up grain prices. One possibility, which the diplomats are trying to work out, is to exchange American grain for Soviet oil. Our sources say the U.S. might be able to import about eight per cent of its oil requirements from the Soviet Union.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Rep. Joe Evins, D.-Tenn., submitted a bill to grant the Energy Research and Development Administration $15,000 for entertainment. As if anticipating the bill's success, ERDA threw a luxury bash five days later at Washington's stylish Mayflower hotel. Cost to the taxpayers: $2,344.49...The Transportation Department proudly announced a contract awarding $570,240 to the State of California to study motorcycle safety. Six days later, the department announced it might revoke federal highway safety grants to California because of its horrendous motorcycle safety laws...

In previous columns, we reported the disappearance of 14 experimental aluminum pennies from the Senate and House banking committees. Since no one has seen the valuable coins since 1973, we concluded that some distinguished thieves had quietly lifted them. But the U.S. Mint's deputy director, Frank MacDonald, fearful of offending the light-fingered legislators, is pretending the coins "remain in the custody of the committees and will presumably be returned to the (Mint) once the committees no longer have any need for these sample pieces."

McKinley's memory would still be honored by changing Mt. McKinley National Park to just plain McKinley National Park.

The Board on Georgraphic Names now has the task of deciding for or against the resolution and is seeking public opinion on the matter. So far, says Donald J. Orth, one of the department's name specialists, they haven't received many responses.

"We urge, therefore, that many more interested residents of alaska and, indeed, anyone having knowledge of and interest in alaska, give the matter their consideration and transmit their opinions to the Board concerning the proposal to change the name of this geographic feature which has national and international prominence."

If you have an opinion one way or the other, transmit it to: Executive Secretary of Domestic Names, U.S. Board on Geographic Names, National Center (Mail Stop 523), Reston, VA 22092.

The sociology professor was discussing the population explosion with his class. "If all the people in China were lined up four abreast and marched over a cliff," he said, "the line would never come to an end." One coed looked perplexed, so the professor elaborated, "The population, you see, would grow faster than they could go off the cliff."

The girl thought for a moment and then said, "But how could it? They'd be marching."

ODD BEDFELLOWS CALL EPA COMMON FOE

Has the EPA—the Environental Protection Agency—grown a little too big for its breeches? Or is it that its breeches—its regulatory powers—were made too extensive in the first place?

It has always, of course, been advisable to take both the claims of the environmentalists and the counter-claims of their antagonists with more than a few grains of salt, although most Americans would probably prefer to err, if err we must, on the side of caution when it coems to their health and well-being.

Lately, however, the EPA has been coming under increasing fire, and it is coming from Capitol Hill as well as the hustings, and from impartial scientists as well as spokesmen for the chemical and other industries that have been most affected by the agency's decisions.

For example, a committee of the prestigious National Academy of Sciences recently concluded that "there is no convincing evidence that chemical pesticides can be replaced in the forseeable future....

"To the extent that regulation of agricultural chemicals is unnecessarily restrictive and sluggish in its administration, new research aimed at safer and more effective pest and disease control chemicals will be discouraged; and, over the long haul, the public will be the loser."

Already, it says, one effect of government regulation has been to put all but the larger companies in a situation where research costs are beyond their means.

The House Agricultural Committee has given the EPA three months to shape up its pesticide control program. "They are unreasonable and arbitrary," one member was quoted as saying, "and this is the only way we can apparently bring them to look at what they are doing."

During one session of the committee, Rep. Floyd J. Fithian (D-Ind.), told an EPA official that "I am concerned, as an environmentalist and a conservationist, that in the process of overstripping the balance of the legislation which created your agency you may kill the goose that lays the golden eggs....I am concerned as a conservationist about what you people are doing to the conservation movement in this country."

At the same time, there are reports of unrest in the lower ranks of the agency itself—too much politics and too little attention to the interests of the public.

There have been suggestions that a separate agency be set up to review EPA actions. Whether or not the cause of environmental protection requires yet another layer of government, whatever steps may be necessary should be taken to ensure that the wide authority granted such a vital agency as the EPA not be abused, misused, or possibly in some cases, unused.

VIOLATING YOUR MEDICAL PRIVACY

The right of privacy is just as fundamental to the independence of the American people as any other of the basic rights, including freedom of speech, press and assembly. Therefore, every citizen should be aware of, and deeply concerned by, a proposed new invasion by government into personal privacy in the field of medicine.

An amendment to the Social Security Act now requires the establishment of Professional Standards Review Organizations (PSROs) to evaluate the health care provided under federally-sponsored Medicare, Medicaid and child health programs. It empoers the government, through these PSROs, to examine patient records in doctors' offices. Until this law was passed, people were able to assume that what they told their doctor would go no further. Now, unless Congress acts to repeal, modify or reinterpret the law, this essential confidentiality of individual medical records will be destroyed. Medical spokesmen warn that these records will be computerized and become available to too many people. Lives could be ruined. As an example, an old and long-forgotten record of a nervous disorder or venereal disease might, if it became part of the public record, unjustifiably prejudice employment and job opportunities.

A physician has, since time immemorial, been bound to secrecy concerning his patient's ills. The tradition is as old as the Hippocratic Oath and is a principle of the medical provession's code of ethics. But the issue is not simply an economic or a moral one--it is medical. The very existence of a system which puts individual medical records into a computerized information bank open to the examination of many people will inevitably lower the quality of medieal care. A doctor cannot always properly treat a patient who is unable to speak frankly and in perfect confidence.

There must be some better way to evaluate health care procedures provided for under federally-financed programs. Opening a doctor's medical files on patients is a gross abuse of governmental power. It illustrates the mortal danger to freedom which is always implicit in expanded dependence on financial aid from government.

THE ANSWER IS BLOWIN' IN THE WIND

The government is going to spend $147,800 to find out if people would mind having windmills as neighbors.

That's the amount of a grant which the National Science Foundation and the Energy Research and Development Administration have made to the University of Illinois' Survey Research Laboratory for a year-long study of public reactions to windmills in five areas across the country, ranging from the heavily settled East Coast to the plains of Kansas to the Pacific Northwest.

The windmills in question are not the picturesque Dutch type, nor the once numerous farm windmills. Modern, high-efficiency windmills capable of contributing to the nation's energy budget would have wheels or vanes 75 to 100 feet in diameter mounted on slender towers 100 to 250 feet high. For maximum efficiency, they would have to be located in large numbers and occupy highly prominent positions.

"Whether the public will accept such modification of the landscape will be a major deciding factor in whether plans for using the wind to generate electrical energy can be implemented," says Prof. Robert Ferber, director of the laboratory.

For a lot less than $147,800, we can tell the researchers the answer already: If people get hungry enough for energy, they'll like windmills.

OUR GREATEST RESOURCE

In this age of stiff competition between nations, it doesn't make sense to waste effort and resources. When thinking of resources, most people conjure up visions of oil wells and forests, rivers, farmaldnd, mineral deposits and the like. This overlooks the fact that the most valuable resource which any nation has is the intelligence and ingenuity of its citizens, combined with the ability of its economic system to produce the goods and services that people need. It is hardly advantageous to have trees in a forest unless someone can make boards out of them to build homes. Oil in the ground, unless there is some way to transform it into gasolien at the local service station pump, is of little use. U.S.-style private enterprise working with the incentives, as well as the disciplines of the free market, is the greatest device ever created when it comes to providing jobs and turning out things people need to live reasonably comfortable and pleasant lives in the midst of relatively hostile natural surroundings. It is the greatest resource the nation has. We should take care of it.

XXX

PROTECTING OUR OWN

U.S. merchant ships must have protection from cutthroat rate-cutting practices of foreign flag carriers now imperiling the financial stability of the new U.S. merchant fleet to which American shipping lines, investors and government have committeed billions of dollars. The problem is described by the president of the American Institute of Merchant Shipping, Mr. James J. Reynolds.

Calling for immediate legislation to protect American merchant vessels, Mr. Reynolds says, "We now have--to the benefit of the nation--for the first time in this century the world's most technologically advanced and competitive cargoliner fleet...which is offering the U.S. shipper far better services than ever before. What happens? The foreigners are sending their ships to our ports and drastically cutting freight rates while skimming off the best high value cargoes in some trades. These practices must cease...or else the entire U.S.-flag cargoliner industry may suffer irreparable damage to the detriment of the national economy and defense." To meet this threat, Senator Daniel K. Inouye, chairman of the Senate Commerce Subcommittee on Foreign Commerce and Tourism, has introduced a bill which would allow the Federal Maritime Commission to reject the rate of a nonnational flag carrier found to be lower than the lowest rate of a "national-flag carrier" in the same trade.

Commenting on the proposed legislation, one shipping line official observes that it is "just what the doctor ordered" for combating the inroads on U.S.-flag shipping by communist countries whose merchant fleets are operated primarily for political purposes, regardless of financial loss. Clearly, in the harsh world of international commerce, domestic concepts of fair competition must remain on the beach when American vessels go to sea.

Inside Labor
By Victor Riesel

Who's A Jerk? Furthermore -- Cashless New York Faces Transit Strike Paralysis

NEW YORK — Just the other night the quiet man inside labor learned across the table, swung his fist down on my wrist (watch, too) and called the local Police Benevolent Assn. president, one Ken McFeeley, "a jerk."

The quiet man is a national ALF-CIO vice president, Mattie Guinan, president of the Transport Workers Union of America (TWU), whose San Francisco transit local was about to support the recent police and firefighters strike there with job action. Mind you, Guinan isn't opposed to citywide municipal strikes even if Babylonian paralysis turns big towns into painted cities upon a painted set.

"Mattie" merely questioned McFeeley's going out to the local airports with leaflets painting the Big Apple as "Fear City."

Guinan also questioned McFeeley's "labor credentials." And tactics. But the Transport leader was all for police strikes and transit stoppages if need be -- and says that he is working with State, County and Municipal Employees president Jerry Wurf in organizing drive to unionize the famed California state patrolmen.

I'll get back to the police soonest. But first, since the eyes of the world's (yes, the world's) investment bankers, national central banks, workers, labor leaders, mayors, governors and presidential candidates are on virtually bankrupt New York, it's Mattie Guinan who's up front. Tell you why.

How powerful 40,000-member transit Local 100 here has a contract expiring on March 31, 1976. The city is broke. Will Guinan's huge local ask the Transit Authority for an increase? Damn right. A "reasonable" one says the quiet man.

But what is reasonable in a cashless city? What is reasonable for a Transit Authority, with a big deficit, raising fares for millions of workers? Reasonable is in the ayes of the holders of union cards, they want more.

Would Mattie lead a strike? Would he shut down the city? Yes indeed, says he.

"Everything will come to a standstill," says Guinan. "We did it before and we'll do it again ... I am ready to go to jail again."

Guinan referred to the January 1966 strike. Some 12 days of subway and bus paralysis and chaos which then Mayor Lindsay handled like Don Quixote did his lance. That strike, federal authorities estimated, cost the nation over $2 billion, since New York is the hub of finance, commerce, transportation and distribution.

The cost of Guinan's "reasonable" TWU demands for his people can't be estimated. But the thrust of the philisophy is significant to all cities -- romantically called urban centers.

Virtually every municipal union is strategic. Or it wouldn't be a civil service union. There is talk of the non-strategic municipal unions -- paper shufflers. But these locals can paralyze the welfare system and thus incite thousands into the streets. They can hit a button or a computer and raise bridges, isolating a city, or cut a highway or stop processing raw sewage or empty hospitals. You name it. It's happened.

What now startles the public is the police or firefighters strikes. But they've only begun.

New York's 24,000- member Policemen's Benevolent Assn. president McFeeley, the "jerk" denounced by Guinan, is more the amateur than the fool. He's getting on-the-job training as a labor leader. He's new. He has a tough following. They're young. they want it yesterday. He has difficulty delivering tomorrow. So he flounders.

But he is a labor leader. The cops may carry guns but they do have a labor union. They've just begun to organize.

In Washington they've an "international" -- independent like the Teamsters. It's the International Conference of Police Associations (ICPA) -- linked with 550 police locals, slowly uniting some 200,000 policemen (and women) into a nationwide labor organization.

Leading them is an experienced organizer, Ed Kiernan, president. He shuttles around the nation like any other union chief.

When the Albuquerque, N.M., police struck for 10 days the ICPA backed them. They won a 23 per cent raise. And when San Francisco Police Officer's Associatoin president Jerry Crowley pulled his men off the street as though they were plumbers or garbage collectors, Kiernan called on all ICPA locals to back them, to pressure Mayor Alioto and to send money to police strike headquarters.

It will all get tougher if the Congress passes a public-sector right-to-strike bill. It's the beginning. What mayor can stand up against a police or transit or firefighters strike -- or their political pressure? And what city can survive $30,000 a-year cops; $20,000-a-year street cleaners? Or the wage-fringe leapfrogging which will result? As someone said here: Mayor Abe Beame should put City Hall in his wife's name and head for the hills.

Washington Merry-Go-Round
By Jack Anderson

with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON--The State Department sees a "clear possibility that terrorists will use fright weapons," such as lasers, chemicals, biologicals, radiation and nuclear arms, to blackmail and perhaps destroy nations.

Although "such use is not inevitable," according to a State Department study, the technology is available to develop scare weapons and terrorists have the ability to steal them.

Still, the State Department holds out hope that "small radical groups" cannot acquire the hideous weapons and that "larger terrorist organizations" will be deterred from using them "by what would be an extremely severe response by the world community."

World opinion, however, has not deterred terrorists from committing small-scale outrages. Since 1968, terrorists have killed 500 people and have wounded another 600 to 800. Among the victims, 16 U.S. officials have been murdered and 32 have been wounded.

The terrorists have also managed to arm themselves with deadly, sophisticated weapons, including shoulder-fired Soviet missiles capable of knocking down airliners.

The State Department study confirms our past reports that Libya has been an important source of weapons for terrorist groups. On May 25, 1974, we called Libya's Muammar Qaddafi one of the world's most irresponsible leaders for arming terrorists, without much throught for the consequences.

The Soviets have sent huge arms shipments to Qaddafi who has supplied terrorist groups from Ireland to the Philippines. Meanwhile, he is trying to get his hands on tactical nuclear weapons.

Apparently, terrorist organizations work together through an international radical underground. "We have seen cooperation among terrorist groups in Latin America," states the study. "Additionally, there are indications of increasing cooperation among the Baader-Meinhof gang in West Germany, the so-called Japanese Red Army and Palestinian terrorist groups, particularly the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine."

Kidnaping has become a favorite terrorist tactic. The State Department cites a Rand Corporation study of 63 major diplomatic kidnaping efforts. In 87 per cent of the cases, the hostages were seized successfully. In 79 per cent of the cases, the kidnapers escaped punishment.

There have also been ominous intelligence reports that the international terrorists are plotting to zero in on the United States.

Footnote: The State Department conducted the study in response to questions from the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, which will publish the results shortly.

SOVIET GRAIN CONTROVERSY: The Soviets have asked Washington for permission to purchase another 11 million tons of grain. This would more than double the 9.8 million tons that have already been sold to Russia.

The total sale, if the new request is approved, would come close to 21 million tons--almost two million tons more than the controversial 1972 wheat deal.

Farm organizations are for approval of the Soviet request. The farmers contend that the government encouraged them to increase their planting this spring. The American wheat crop, therefore, is expected to surpass two billion bushels this year. Two-thirds of this must be sold overseas, the farmers claim. Otherwise, they will be stuck with huge surplus stocks and the bottom will fall out of the market.

The sale of another 11 million tons to Russia, on the other hand, will push up grain prices. One possibility, which the diplomats are trying to work out, is to exchange American grain for Soviet oil. Our sources say the U.S. might be able to import about eight per cent of its oil requirements from the Soviet Union.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Rep. Joe Evins, D.-Tenn., submitted a bill to grant the Energy Research and Development Administration $15,000 for entertainment. As if anticipating the bill's success, ERDA threw a luxury bash five days later at Washington's stylish Mayflower hotel. Cost to the taxpayers: $2,344.49...The Transportation Department proudly announced a contract awarding $570,240 to the State of California to study motorcycle safety. Six days later, the department announced it might revoke federal highway safety grants to California because of its horrendous motorcycle safety laws...

In previous columns, we reported the disappearance of 14 experimental aluminum pennies from the Senate and House banking committees. Since no one has seen the valuable coins since 1973, we concluded that some distinguished thieves had quietly lifted them. But the U.S. Mint's deputy director, Frank MacDonald, fearful of offending the light-fingered legislators, is pretending the coins "remain in the custody of the committees and will presumably be returned to the (Mint) once the committees no longer have any need for these sample pieces."

Thoughts

From The Living Bible

"Come, let us return to the Lord; it is he who has torn us — he will heal us. He has wounded—he will bind us up. In just a couple of days, or three at the most, he will set us on our feet again, to live in his kindness! Oh, that we might know the Lord! Let us press on to know him, and he will respond to us as surely as the coming of dawn or the rain of early spring."

From The Living Bible

"Come, let us return to the Lord; it is he who has torn us — he will heal us. He has wounded—he will bind us up. In just a couple of days, or three at the most, he will set us on our feet again, to live in his kindness! Oh, that we might know the Lord! Let us press on to know him, and he will respond to us as surely as the coming of dawn or the rain of early spring."

Hosea 6:1-4

Women on the go

RUTH ANN NORTHCUTT, 27, of 223 Sikes Ave., is accustomed to words such as industrial prospects, walk-ins and development. These words float around her daily while she is at the Chamber of Commerce modern brick building.

She acts as a receptionist, typist, bookkeeper, stenographer plus has cooked and made decorations for banquets. As she sums it up, "I'm a 'Girl Friday' and jack-of-all-trades. You name it, I do it."

And the job qualifications include "patience -- There's always phone calls from people asking questions or people coming in who end up visiting; handling challenges -- new things are happening here all the time and you have to have an interest in people; be creative -- you have to come up with new ideas for programs and banquets held every year; and try to have a pleasing personality."

Perhaps this is what prompted a former Chamber of Commerce manager to hire her away from her job as a school receptionist six years ago.

She soon had "to learn everything (about Sikeston.) People ask you anything they can't ask anyone else." She feels being a native of Sikeston eases that responsibility.

Mrs. Northcutt estimates at least 10 strangers or walk-ins come into the office, usually looking for a city map. Many are salesmen; some are couples looking for apartments or professionals such as lawyers or doctors wanting to set up a business. And occasionally, a traveling alcoholic wanders in begging for a hand-out.

In addition, she has learned to give out information quickly over the telephone to officials, often who withhold their names, looking for an ideal place to build a factory.

Once she even ran the entire office for seven months when there was no manager. In addition, she gives directions and admits she is "only average" at doing so.

Then there is sitting in at countless meetings to take minutes. Many times, she is the only woman present and takes a lot of ribbing as a newlywed.

What she likes best about the job is meeting the people. Occasionally, she will introduce the city to an industrial prospect when the manager is busy. The worst aspect is the monotonous, time- consuming duty of addressing envelopes.

She describes her a rapport with Manager Bill Wellborn as "I work with him, not for him" and claims they work as a team. He creates an enthusiastic and often optimistic climate to counteract her low-key approach.

Because she enjoys her job, responsibilities expand year after year. And up until this year, she laid the groundwork for the Farmers' Recognition Banquet held each fall.

What's so great about being a Girl Friday? "I couldn't just sit and type all day or just keep books. Here there's always something else to do. I don't have to do one certain thing five days a week. Variety is the spice of life."

--Jackie Schoeneman

Husbands need to make wills

Dear Ann Landers: Why would a bright, loving man who showed every consideration for his wife and children during his lifetime die without leaving them protected by a will?

It's too late for your answer to help us, but please, Ann, print this letter because both my attorney and funeral director have told me that an unbelievable number of men, responsible and competent in fiscal matters, behave as if they are going to live forever. They make no preparation whatever for the eventuality of death.

I am now faced with a financial mess beyond belief. Attorney's fees and inheritance taxes are horrendous. I am also having heartbreaking problems with my husband's brother over some property -- the ownership of which is unclear.

I know my husabnd loved me and the children with all his heart. Why didn't he take care of us properly? -- Thorns Among The Widow's Weeds

Dear Thorns: Why? Because, like so many others, he hated to think about death -- as if by ignoring it, it would ignore him.

I hope every man who reads this column will ask himself, "If I died tonight would my family be protected financially?" If the answer is "yes," you deserve to sleep like a baby. If not, get busy and put your affairs in order. You owe it to those you love.

Dear Ann Landers: I can't do one other thing until I write a letter which I hope Melanie's parents will read. She's the 22-year-old girl who wanted to have her nose done.

I, too, had a nose with "character," according to my parents. They were dead set against my doing anything to change it. Actually, it was a big blob and much too big for my face. I hated it.

After months of pleading, my father took me to a plastic surgeon who was well known for his fine work, fair prices and high ethical standards. He sided with me and his operation changed my life.

Like Melanie, I was never popular. After the surgery I was the same old me but my whole attitude changed. I had confidence when I met new people and a much better opinion of myself.

Now, even my parents admit I was right. Good luck, Melanie! -- Much Happier

Dear Much: The key phrase in yourletter, which should be noted carefully, is "a plastic surgeon well known for his fine work, fair prices and high ethical standards." Take heed, readers -- and thanks for writing, dear.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing this in answer to the letter from "Plant Lover In Miami." I am 13 years old and have been doing a lot of experiments with plants for the Science Fair. Here are my findings:

I took three different kinds of plants and played three different kinds of music, six hours a day, to all of them. The plants that got the rock and roll were dead in 24 hours. The plants that "listened" to the dance music of the '50s didn't die, but they weren't especially healthy. The third category, which got the Chopin, Mozart and lullabies flourished. So you see, Ann, there IS something to it. -- Anothr Plant Lover

Dear Lover: So my readers told me -- by the hundreds. Thanks for sharing your research.

Ford says wife was misunderstood

MILWAUKEE (AP) — President Ford says his wife was misunderstood in recent comments on their personal life and on premarital sex.

"I'm really proud of what Betty tried to say," the President said during a television interview here Monday.

Mrs. Ford aroused a storm of comment when she said during a recent television interview that she would not be surprised if her daughter, Susan, 18, came to her and said she was having an affair.

Susan later said she was not having an affair.

Then, last week, in an interview published by McCall's magazine, Mrs. Ford said that while the question had never actually been posed to her, if reporters did ask her how often she slept with her husband, her answer would be, "As often as possible."

She was quoted as saying that when she let it be known that the Fords had spurned the White House practice of separate sleeping quarters, some of those who wrote to comment apparently seemed to "feel it is very immoral for us to use the same bedroom."

She said some apparently felt that a man who becomes president is "supposed to become a eunuch."

In his interview on Monday, the President said he wanted to put his wife's comments in "proper perspective."

He said his wife was attempting to make it known that the family was deeply concerned about moral standards.

Ford said his family is "very close. We have a tradition of individual members speaking their mind, discussing matters, the children with their mother or father; we speaking quite frankly to our children ..."

The Fords also have three grown sons, Michael, Jack and Steven.

By Ron Jaynes

Southeast Missouri certainly excelled in sports during the 1974-75 school year, according to the Missouri State High School Activities Association 47th annual official handbook which showed Bootheel teams claiming top honors in six of the dozen athletic events entered during the school year.

The MSHSAA lists 16 sports events that it sponsors. Soccer and Boys and Girls swimming are the only events that SEMO athletes are not entered in.

In baseball, Chaffee became the first diamond crew to win a state crown since the 1962 Cape Central team turned the trick and was only the second Southeast Missouri team to win a state baseball crown other than Central.

The country boys really sped away with the honors on the basketball court, sweeping three of the four class crowns with Advance claiming the A title; Lilbourn the AA crown and Charleston the AAA championship.

Poplar Bluff placed 16th and Cape Central 24th in the golf tournament.

Steve Gubin of Caruthersville and Scott Louis, Rob Weeks, Vince Fallert and Adrian Toole of Cape Central made the Tennis playoffs.

In indoor Boys track, Charlie Clark of Charleston claimed second in the 60 yard dash. Cape Central's Mary Colon won fifth in the high jump event of the girls track event.

Chaffee, East Prairie, Notre Dame, Charleston, Dexter, Kennett, Jackson and Poplar Bluff placed in the boys outdoor track event. Chaffee and Charleston won third in their respective class.

In girls volleyball, Bloomfield and Advance won district titles in the first year of playoffs in that sporting event. State play will continue this season.

Southeast Missouri failed to place in Wrestling, Cross Country and Football. The failure for a SEMO gridiron team to make the playoffs marked the first time in the seven year history of the state tournament that a Bootheel team failed to make it.

To equal the above accomplishments would be tremendous...and to improve upon the record would add glory to the Southeast Missouri claim of SEMO POWER....

Let's show the state that our area of the state is the tops as far as athletic competition goes.

Will you give your 110 per cent to your teams effort this season?

I'm certainly proud to say I'm from Southeast Missouri, especially when sports is the main topic.

I'm awfully proud of the past performances of our many athletes and hope to be even prouder when next years totals are complete.

DU banquet Oct. 1

A super-sized night for local sportsmen-conservationists is on the agenda for Oct. 6. That's when the Swampeast, Mo. Committee of Ducks Unlimited, the international wildlife conservation organization, pulls out all of the stops with its big annual "night-for-the-ducks", to be held at Sikeston Ramada Inn.

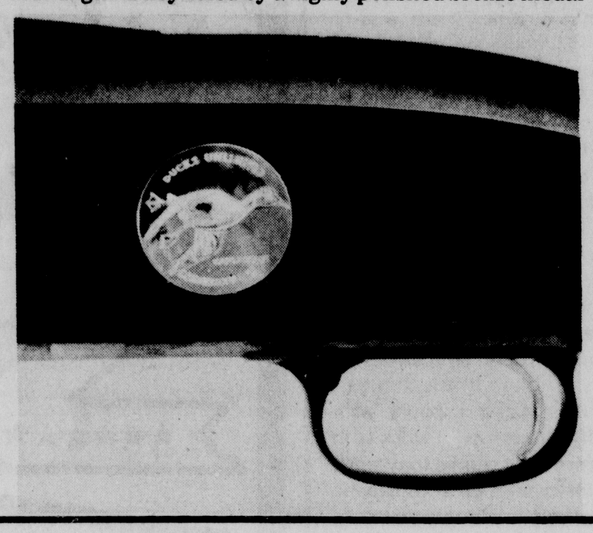

Local DU leaders promise that it will be a thoroughly enjoyable evening for those in attendance, with good food, plenty of 'duck-talk' and many outstanding prizes. The party will be highlighted by one of the most unusual prizes to come down the proverbial pike --- a rare and unique Ducks Unlimited Commemorative Shotgun, which will be auctioned off.

The new commemorative will be the traditional "old reliable"pumpgun which has, over its distinguished history covering 62 years, become almost synonymous with waterfowling --- the famous Winchester Model 12!!!

Winchester, one of the real pioneers in the American firearms industry, is paying tribute to DU, with the issue of this Ducks Unlimited Commemorative shotgun, which is believed to be the most limited edition ever created.

Winchester is producing a super-high-quality, extremely limited "presentation" series of the handsome Model 12 DU Commemorataive -- only 800 of them -- which are being featured as headline prizes at Ducks Unlimited "fund-raisers" across the nation -- including the local DU party.

And, a real eye-opening beauty the rare new 12-gauge Model 12 Commemorative is!!!! Coming with a 30 inch, full-choke, ventilated-rib barrel, the "presentation" scattergun is keynoted by a highly polished bronze medal depicting the canvasback, mounted in special etched engraving on the left side of the receiver. The right side of the receiver spotlights engraving of a jumping duck.

And, that's just a beginning of the great, exclusive features of this special series of only 800 -- handsome deep-cut checkering is featured on the top-quality "select" American walnut stock and fore-end. Additional super features include polished gold trigger, and a special highly polished bronze pistol grip of the official DU crest.

Saving the best for last -- the unique super-gun to be featured at DU dinners will come in the ultra-rare serial numbers in the series of No. 12-DU-1 to No. 12-DU-800!! Experts in gun collecting will quickly tell you that this shotgun will be a very rare and attractive collector's prize. It's worth remembering -- guns from this special commemorative series of just 800 Winchester Model 12's will only be available at DU fund-raising events, not at any store!

Plan now to attend the Ducks Unlimited party coming up on Oct. 6. Perhaps you'll come away from that enjoyable evening as the enviable owner of one of the rarest commemorative firearms ever issued -- the Ducks Unlimited Winchester Model 12.

Tickets for the event are available at Marks Food Mart; Homestead Sporting Goods department; Jim Ponder Chevrolet of Charleston; Chrisman Wildlife Studio of Dexter, or write Ducks Unlimited, Box 113, Sikeston or call 471-7374.

Reds cool Birds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Gullett of Cincinnati says he's "not 100 per cent yet," while Mike Garman of St. Louis may never be the same.

Gullett, the young, Cincinnati Reds left-hander, fired a fivehit, 4-0 shutout Thursday night—his first shutout since May 31—for his fourth straight victory over the Cardinals this year.

Now 11-3 for the season, Gullett has a 13-3 career record against the Cards. St. Louis hasn't scored a run off Gullett in 14 innings, losing twice in the past 11 days.

Gullett remains unimpressed with his mastery over the Cards. "I have no reason for my success against them. It's just one of those things,"said Gullett, who hasn't lost since May 20. He owns a seven-game winning streak that was interrupted by nine weeks of enforced inactivity due to a broken thumb.

His quick return fuels hopes for the rampaging Reds, who aim to end the frustrations of 35 years without a world championship.

Gullett feels he has a way to go yet.

"As far as endurance, I'm pretty well there," said Gullett, who has a 76-40 career record at age 24—the winningest start ever by a major league pitcher.

"But my arm's not 100 per cent. I still have a little way to go."

Gullett got all the help he needed when lightly-regarded Darrel Chaney cracked a solo homer in the fifth inning, snapping the scoreless deadlock.

Cards starter Bob Forsch had limited the Reds to one hit through five innings before tearing skin on the middle finger of his pitching hand. He yielded to Garman, who was greeted by Chaney's line-drive homer down the right field line. It was only the seventh homer of Chaney's career and second this year...and this week.

"I'm not weak," Chaney deadpanned. "I once had 23 homers in one season down in Asheville, N.C.. But the air is pretty thin down there."

The homer gave him 21 runs batted in for the season, a career high.

"I just try to fill a gap," said Chaney, a .216 hitter who was filling in a shortstop for Dave Concepicon.

"It used to bother me before when reporters always asked me how I liked riding the bench. But now I know what my job is. I just try to contribute something," said the veteran utility player.

Garman, 3-5, gnashed his teeth over the gopher pitch to Chaney. "It's a heck of a way to get a loss. If I faced him another 100 times he'd never get another homer off me. I'll give him credit for it, but the odds are way against him."

The Reds jumped on Al Hrabowsky for three more runs in the seventh. Ken Griffey tripled in a run and scored on a wild pitch. Johnny Bench drove in the other with a single following walks to Joe Morgan and Tony Perez, who saw his 18-game hitting streak snapped.

Long leads stars into semifinals

Sikeston's 11-12 year old all-stars rode the one hit pitching of Stanley Long and a 15 hit barrage to a 12-2 victory over Delta in the Chaffee Little League Invitational Wednesday night.

Nick Garner and Derik Curtis had three each in leading the Sikeston stars offense. Curtis slammed a pair of doubles and Self a triple while Bert Perry doubled and went two for two at the plate for the Stars.

Eric Hicks was handed the defeat and Kevin Phegley collected Delta's lone hit. That came in the two run second inning when Delta grabbed a 2-1 lead.

Sikeston goes against the Illmo-Scott City Nationals at 6:30 Friday in a semifinal contest.

Sports corner

By Ron Jaynes

Southeast Missouri certainly excelled in sports during the 1974-75 school year, according to the Missouri State High School Activities Association 47th annual official handbook which showed Bootheel teams claiming top honors in six of the dozen athletic events entered during the school year.

The MSHSAA lists 16 sports events that it sponsors. Soccer and Boys and Girls swimming are the only events that SEMO athletes are not entered in.

In baseball, Chaffee became the first diamond crew to win a state crown since the 1962 Cape Central team turned the trick and was only the second Southeast Missouri team to win a state baseball crown other than Central.

The country boys really sped away with the honors on the basketball court, sweeping three of the four class crowns with Advance claiming the A title; Lilbourn the AA crown and Charleston the AAA championship.

Poplar Bluff placed 16th and Cape Central 24th in the golf tournament.

Steve Gubin of Caruthersville and Scott Louis, Rob Weeks, Vince Fallert and Adrian Toole of Cape Central made the Tennis playoffs.

In indoor Boys track, Charlie Clark of Charleston claimed second in the 60 yard dash. Cape Central's Mary Colon won fifth in the high jump event of the girls track event.

Chaffee, East Prairie, Notre Dame, Charleston, Dexter, Kennett, Jackson and Poplar Bluff placed in the boys outdoor track event. Chaffee and Charleston won third in their respective class.

In girls volleyball, Bloomfield and Advance won district titles in the first year of playoffs in that sporting event. State play will continue this season.

Southeast Missouri failed to place in Wrestling, Cross Country and Football. The failure for a SEMO gridiron team to make the playoffs marked the first time in the seven year history of the state tournament that a Bootheel team failed to make it.

To equal the above accomplishments would be tremendous...and to improve upon the record would add glory to the Southeast Missouri claim of SEMO POWER....

Let's show the state that our area of the state is the tops as far as athletic competition goes.

Will you give your 110 per cent to your teams effort this season?

I'm certainly proud to say I'm from Southeast Missouri, especially when sports is the main topic.

I'm awfully proud of the past performances of our many athletes and hope to be even prouder when next years totals are complete.

Ripley's Believe It or Not!

DU banquet Oct. 1

A super-sized night for local sportsmen-conservationists is on the agenda for Oct. 6. That's when the Swampeast, Mo. Committee of Ducks Unlimited, the international wildlife conservation organization, pulls out all of the stops with its big annual "night-for-the-ducks", to be held at Sikeston Ramada Inn.

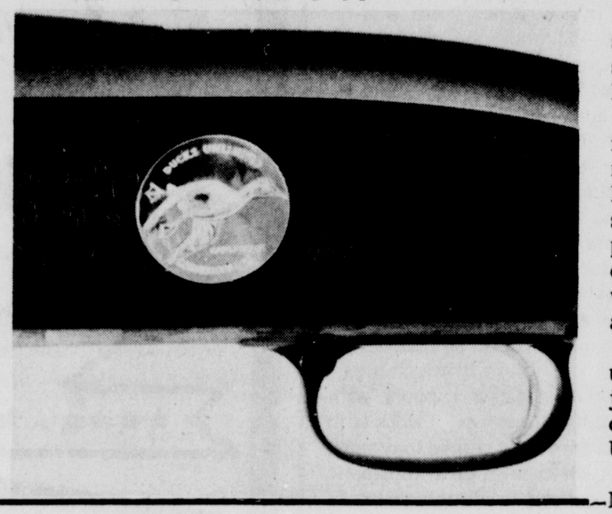

Local DU leaders promise that it will be a thoroughly enjoyable evening for those in attendance, with good food, plenty of 'duck-talk' and many outstanding prizes. The party will be highlighted by one of the most unusual prizes to come down the proverbial pike --- a rare and unique Ducks Unlimited Commemorative Shotgun, which will be auctioned off.

The new commemorative will be the traditional "old reliable"pumpgun which has, over its distinguished history covering 62 years, become almost synonymous with waterfowling --- the famous Winchester Model 12!!!

Winchester, one of the real pioneers in the American firearms industry, is paying tribute to DU, with the issue of this Ducks Unlimited Commemorative shotgun, which is believed to be the most limited edition ever created.

Winchester is producing a super-high-quality, extremely limited "presentation" series of the handsome Model 12 DU Commemorataive -- only 800 of them -- which are being featured as headline prizes at Ducks Unlimited "fund-raisers" across the nation -- including the local DU party.

And, a real eye-opening beauty the rare new 12-gauge Model 12 Commemorative is!!!! Coming with a 30 inch, full-choke, ventilated-rib barrel, the "presentation" scattergun is keynoted by a highly polished bronze medal depicting the canvasback, mounted in special etched engraving on the left side of the receiver. The right side of the receiver spotlights engraving of a jumping duck.

And, that's just a beginning of the great, exclusive features of this special series of only 800 -- handsome deep-cut checkering is featured on the top-quality "select" American walnut stock and fore-end. Additional super features include polished gold trigger, and a special highly polished bronze pistol grip of the official DU crest.

Saving the best for last -- the unique super-gun to be featured at DU dinners will come in the ultra-rare serial numbers in the series of No. 12-DU-1 to No. 12-DU-800!! Experts in gun collecting will quickly tell you that this shotgun will be a very rare and attractive collector's prize. It's worth remembering -- guns from this special commemorative series of just 800 Winchester Model 12's will only be available at DU fund-raising events, not at any store!

Plan now to attend the Ducks Unlimited party coming up on Oct. 6. Perhaps you'll come away from that enjoyable evening as the enviable owner of one of the rarest commemorative firearms ever issued -- the Ducks Unlimited Winchester Model 12.

GRAY RIDGE — Break-ins occurred Wednesday night at the Richland South Grade School and Fulkerson's Grocery, the Stoddard County Sheriff's Department reported.

Taken at the school were a clock, portable radio, three pounds of wieners, two dozen eggs and $2 in change from a teacher's desk.

Entry was gained through a window in the kitchen. No vandalism was reported.

Taken at the grocery store were $3 from the cash register, half a carton of flashlight batteries, one flashlight, eight cartons of cigarettes, six cigarette lighters and three gold watch bands.

The front door of the store had been pried open.

2 break-ins reported

GRAY RIDGE — Break-ins occurred Wednesday night at the Richland South Grade School and Fulkerson's Grocery, the Stoddard County Sheriff's Department reported.

Taken at the school were a clock, portable radio, three pounds of wieners, two dozen eggs and $2 in change from a teacher's desk.

Entry was gained through a window in the kitchen. No vandalism was reported.

Taken at the grocery store were $3 from the cash register, half a carton of flashlight batteries, one flashlight, eight cartons of cigarettes, six cigarette lighters and three gold watch bands.

The front door of the store had been pried open.

Mrs. Tom Allen and daughter, Miss Margaret, went to Columbia, Monday, where the latter will enroll at Stephens College in the school of music.

Mrs. Effie Mae Bryant, 70, widow of the late James H. Bryant, died at her home on Missouri avenue Sunday.

Miss Annie Pearl Taylor, 69, who for many years has conducted a beauty shop at her home on the corner of South New Madrid and Ruth street, died at the Delta Community Hospital today after a long illness.

What Coach Bill Sapp says is the greatest number of candidates he has ever seen turn out for football practice before school opens has been working out on the Sikeston high school football field this week and if numbers and enthusiasm count for anything, the 1955 Bulldogs of Sikeston High School should rank right up with the fabulous elevens that have carried the red and black to seven consecutive championships but no one knows better than coach Bill Sapp the fallacy of predicting anything this early in the game.

Street paving planned

EAST PRAIRIE — In a special session Wednesday night, the City Council approved a resolution calling for the paving of West Pine Street from Roberts to Garfield streets, with notices advertising the paving to be published in the local newspaper editions of Sept. 4 and 11.

The council approved the resolution, which was the first recommendation made by a Citizens Advisory Committee appointed in July by Mayor Hunt Wellborn to advise the council on street improvements.

Costs of the proposed improvement, which will include concrete curbing, guttering and storm sewers, will be $8.33 per foot. Property owners will be liable for $5.50 per foot, however, as the city will pay one-third of the cost. A two and a half-inch asphalt mix will be laid over a rock base.

Wellborn said loans for the paving would be available to property owners at eight per cent simple interest, with up to five years to repay. Payments can be made either yearly or monthly.

A new asphalt spreader recently purchased by the city will be used for the project.

City Manager Frank Carter said no tax increase will be necessary to finance the city's share of the improvements because revenue from the one-cent sales tax can be used for this purpose.

Following the advertisement in the paper, property owners have 10 days in which to protest the proposed improvements. The project will require approval of 50 per cent of the property owners along the street before work can begin.

Recommendations for paving of other streets before winter will be presented by the committee to the council shortly. Property owners who desire to have their streets paved should contact a member of he advisory committee or City Council or the city manager in order to take advantage of the present costs and availability of city money.

Committee members include Kenny Boyd, chairman; Robert Hess, co-chairman; Jerry Secoy, secretary; and Joel Savell, Mollie Lee, Lucille Hockersmith, Mary Moore, Shirley Pritchett, Richard Slaten and Dick Reed.

Take A Walk

An Englishman, John Lees, holds the current record for walking across the United States. In 1972, he walked 2,876 miles from Los Angeles to New York in 53 days, 12 hours, 15 minutes. He averaged almost 54 miles a day.

Court house flag pole to be fixed

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Court Thursday considered repairing the flag pole on the courthouse lawn so the flag may be flown.

The discussion arose after reports were received that several persons have wondered why the flag has not been raised recently.

County Clerk John Marvin Capps explained that the pulley device that raises the flag is broken.

Various methods of solving the problem were discussed, including the possibility of shortening the pole so it can be fixed more easily in the future.

No definite decision was made abut what should be done, but Capps was instructed to look into the matter.

A catalyst is a substance that alters the rate at which a chemical reaction takes place but which itself remains unchanged.

We made a men's cologne so subtle, we thought no one would notice.
But they did.

Tabac Original's fragrance is smokey, and very masculine. But certainly unassuming.

Because of this subtlety, and because the fragrance stays with you an inordinately long time, it has become the most sought-after-men's cologne in Europe and the rest of the world.

But we worried about how such an under stated cologne would do in America. And we worried about our Tabac Orignial After-Shave, Soap, Hair Tabac and Spray Deodorant.

We worried for nothing. Tabac Original has become as sought-after as it is in the rest of the world. Which leads us to believe it isn't how loud a cologne speaks, it's what it has to say.

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, August 29, the 241st day of 1975. There are 124 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1782, nearly 1,100 persons drowned when an English man-o-war sank while being repaired in the harbor at Portsmouth, England.

On this date:

In 1533, the last Incan king of Peru, Atahualpa, was strangled on the orders of the Spanish conqueror, Francisco Pizarro.

In 1817, the first abolition newspaper in the United States, the Philanthropist, was published in Mount Pleasant, Ohio.

In 1901, the temperance crusader, Carry Nation, swung her hatchet in an attack on a New York saloon run by former heavyweight boxing champion John L. Sullivan.

In 1935, Queen Astrid of Belgium was killed in an auto accident in Switzerland.

In 1943, Danish warships were scuttled at Copenhagen in an uprising against the Nazis during World War II.

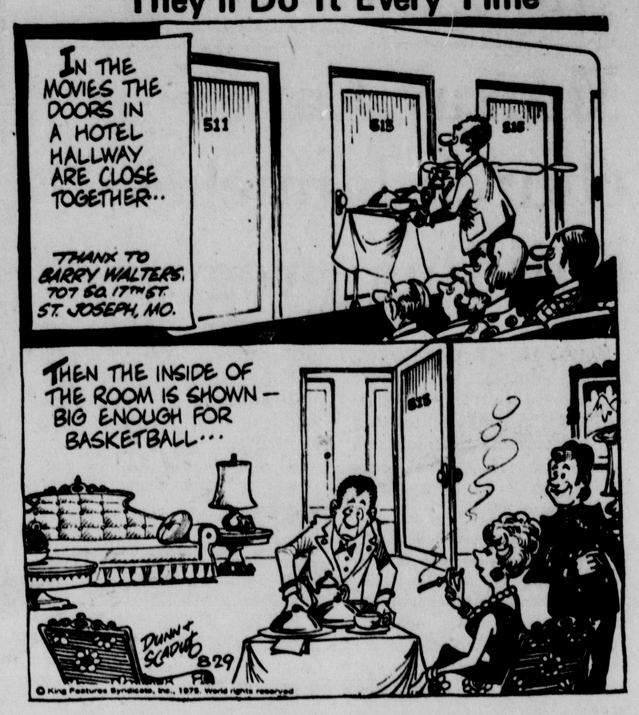

In 1945, General Douglas MacArthur left Manila for Japan to accept the Japanese surrender.

Ten years ago: U.S. astronauts L. Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad made a safe landing in the Atlantic after a record eight days in orbit around the earth.

Five years ago: An American plane with $670,000 in hashish aboard was seized on the Greek island of Crete after a chase from the Middle East by jet fighters from three nations.

Today's birthdays: Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer is 76. Actor Barry Sullivan is 63.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, August 29, the 241st day of 1975. There are 124 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1782, nearly 1,100 persons drowned when an English man-o-war sank while being repaired in the harbor at Portsmouth, England.

On this date:

In 1533, the last Incan king of Peru, Atahualpa, was strangled on the orders of the Spanish conqueror, Francisco Pizarro.

In 1817, the first abolition newspaper in the United States, the Philanthropist, was published in Mount Pleasant, Ohio.

In 1901, the temperance crusader, Carry Nation, swung her hatchet in an attack on a New York saloon run by former heavyweight boxing champion John L. Sullivan.

In 1935, Queen Astrid of Belgium was killed in an auto accident in Switzerland.

In 1943, Danish warships were scuttled at Copenhagen in an uprising against the Nazis during World War II.

In 1945, General Douglas MacArthur left Manila for Japan to accept the Japanese surrender.

Ten years ago: U.S. astronauts L. Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad made a safe landing in the Atlantic after a record eight days in orbit around the earth.

Five years ago: An American plane with $670,000 in hashish aboard was seized on the Greek island of Crete after a chase from the Middle East by jet fighters from three nations.

Today's birthdays: Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer is 76. Actor Barry Sullivan is 63.

Murray Lane church launches building program

Murray Lane Baptist Church, 807 W. Murray Lane, voted Sunday to award a $206,000 contract for construction of a new educational building and renovation of the existing building to Ryan Construction Co., 409 Davis Blvd.

The project will provide space in the educational unit for 200 additional persons and make possible the forming of five new Sunday School departments in the future. Also included in the work will be an enlarged and remodeled kitchen, music room with storage and rehearsal space for choir members, rearrangement of church offices and a new roof for the existing structure.

Work began on the new construction Wednesday and a groundbreaking ceremony is tentatively scheduled for Sunday. The congregation plans to move into the new facilities next spring.

The Rev. H. Wade Paris is the pastor, and Robert Boyer, 848 Stanford Drive, is chairman of the building committee.

Extension course to begin at Oran

ORAN — The Rev. Robert L. Fox, pastor of First Baptist Church, will teach a seminary extension Bible course from 7 to 9 p.m. each Tuesday starting Sept. 2.

The course, titled "Understanding the Bible", will last for nine weeks.

A fee will be charged only if the course is taken for seminary credit.

There will be no charge to persons interested in taking the course without the credits. A Bible and paper for notes are the only materials needed.

Revival to open Sunday

BLOOMFIELD — Revival services will begin Sunday and continue through Sept. 7 at Lick Creek Missionary Baptist Church, located near the Aid community.

The services will begin at 1 a.m. Sunday with the Rev. Lawrence Green, an associational missionary in the Corning, Ark., area, as the evangelist and Bob Crutchly of Bernie as song leader.

Sunday's services also will include singing by the Vaneta Park Singers of Berkeley in the morning service, dinner on the grounds at 12:30 p.m. and a 2 p.m. singing program featuring the Vaneta Park Singers and the Gospel Tones Quartet of Idalia.

The evening services will begin at 7:30, according to the Rev. Melvin Gainer, pastor.

St. Louis group to sing at Little Vine

Evangelist Glen Crowe and The Parables of St. Louis will present a gospel singing program beginning at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Little Vine General Baptist Church, located on Route AA eight miles southeast of Sikeston.

Bishop will not approve ordinations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Episcopal bishop of Washington says he is withholding his permission for five women to be ordained here Sept. 7 but that there is no question women will be ordained to the Episcopal priesthood 18 months from now.

"There is a better way to approach the ordination of women than the way of an unauthorized or irregular service," the Rt. Rev. William F. Creighton said Monday. "There is no question that duly qualified women will be ordained to the priesthood no later than 18 months from now."

Bishop Creighton said he has told the Rt. Rev. George W. Barrett, 67, former bishop of Rochester, N.Y., "that he does not have my permission to ordain deacons to the priesthood in this diocese."

Bishop Barrett, now of Santa Barbara, Calif., has agreed to ordain the five at St. Stephen and the Incarnation Church here.

The Rev. William A. Wendt, rector of St. Stephen's, said of Bishop Creighton's statement, "I don't think that will deter Bishop Barrett or anyone else."

The church's House of Bishops ruled invalid the ordinations of 11 women in Philadelphia on July 29, 1974, and the church's bishops have agreed to withhold ordination from women until 1976, when the church's general convention will vote on the matter.

Controversy is nothing new for the Rev. Mrs. Edwards, a deacon at Evanston's St. Matthew Episcopal Church, whose role within the church once sparked heresy charges against the late James A. Pike, former Episcopal Bishop of California.

She was ordained as a deacon in 1965. In the same year, Bishop Pike formally recognized her as a member of the Episcopal clergy — a move which led to the heresy charges against him. Bishop Pike resigned in 1966 because of other controversies and finally left the church in 1969 after questioning church dogma for more than a decade.

Trio to visit Calvary Assembly

The Embassy Trio will be featured in a Tenn Challenge rally at 9:30 a.m. Sunday in Calvary Assembly Church, 127 W. Trotter St. The trio, composed of Phil and Beverly Breithaupt and Mary Wartian, represent Mid-America Tenn Challenge Training Center of Cape Girardeau and will share experiences of how the center has helped rehabilitate many youths previously involved in crime, drug abuse and other forms of delinquency. Teen Challenge is a nonprofit religious- oriented organization founded by the Rev. David Wilderson, author of "The Cross and Switchblade".

Young Mormon missionaries face strict conduct code

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — More than 150 teen-age youths, wearing closely cropped hair and dark suits, pour out of a renovated downtown school building, accepting a two-year challenge that all but a few will meet.

They are part of the weekly output of self-financed missionaries to 80 countries from the 3.4-million-member Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons).

If they follow the rules, they will for two years ignore sex, dress conservatively at all times, limit reading to church-authorized books, watch movies and television only with special permission, give up swimming and all dangerous sports, never be alone with a girl and never be separated from an assigned missionary companion.

Once in the mission field, they will study or proselyte, usually door-to-door, 13 hours a day, six days a week.

They'll tell people that God appeared to American prophet Joseph Smith in New York State in the early 1800s and restored to him Christ's only true church, which Mormons believe was taken from the earth when the Savior died.

More than 19,000 preachers — including some young women and older married couples — last year baptized nearly 70,000 converts to one of the world's fastest-growing Christian religions.

Some missionaries will quit before two years. Others fall away from the church later. Church officials say less than 2 per cent leave in mid-mission and fewer than 10 per cent eventually lose faith in Mormonism.

Some returned missionaries say they believe both figures are higher.

The only formal religious training for most of the boy preachers is five days, generally in the Missionary Home, across the street from the church's $33-million, 28-story administration building.

Most have been regular churchgoers and many have taken daily Mormon seminary classes in high school. Some will preach in languages they will learn in an intensive eight-week language school.

"I feel like I'm going to have fun and work at it. I'm going to put my nose to the grindstone," said Mel Wardell, 19, Lovell, Wyo., who begins his mission in Rochester, N.Y., this month.

In a paper written for a sociology class, a former missionary looked upon the experience as "brainwashing" and said of the training period, "I was indoctrinated to preach the Gospel and avoid other conversations such as politics, school and Utah history."

More than 20,000 missionaries are now in the field. Church officials say they want to go to every country in the world, including Arab and Communist nations and India, where they are now banned.

Church officials say the dress and conduct restrictions placed on missionaries are partly to keep the missionary's mind "single to the Gospel" and partly to protect the image of the church.

The ban on swimming, however, says a spokesman, is simply to save the lives of missionaries. "When we didn't have it, we'd lose up to 10 a year from drowning. It's as simple as that."

Teachers and officers to be installed Sunday

MALDEN — An installation ceremony for teachers and officers of the Sunday School Department will be conducted during the morning worship service Sunday at Sunnyvale General Baptist Church and a singspiration will be featured during the Sunday evening service.

The Broadway Family will be featured in the singing program which also will include local groups.

Ozarkians to sing at Canalou

CANALOU — The Ozarkians, a gospel singing group from Ozark, Mo., will present a singing program at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Canalou Assembly of God Church, the Rev. T. G. Perry, pastor, has announced.

VBS movie set

MALDEN — The 1975 Vacation Bible School movies will be shown at First Southern Baptist Church Sunday night at 7:30.

Clergy couples multiplying in some churches

NEW YORK (AP) — A new kind of ministerial team — the clergy couple — is multiplying among American Protestant churches and seems destined to become a familiar arrangement.

With the current upsurge of women training in the nation's seminaries and with many of them marrying male seminarians, the prospect was strong for a growing corp of husband-and-wife ministerial partnerships.

"It's the coming thing," says the Rev. Thomas Knutson, pastor of First Lutheran Church in Harvey, Ill. His wife, Karen, also is an ordained Lutheran Khurch of America minister.

Recognizing such pairs as a swelling trend, the United Methodist Church's division of ordained ministry recently held its first conference about it, noting that 93 clergy couples now hold posts in the denomination.

Their joint vocation should be seen, not as a problem, but as "opportunities for new and creative ministry," 12 ordained couples participating in the meeting at Nashville, Tenn., said in a statement.

The wedded ministries have developed in most major Protestant denominations. A United Presbyterian assembly last year suggested congregations consider calling "husbands and wives who desire to serve as an ordained team in the same church."

Some of the couples do so, while others serve different parishes in the same geographical vicinity.

The couples-of-the cloth say there are some difficulties in their status, as well as advantages, including the added necessity of finding posts close together. They also cite the possibility of husband-wife competition if they work for the same congregation.

In California, pastors of churches at different ends of the state and in different Lutheran denominations were married in June, and continue to serve posts in different denominational and geographical settings.

They are the Rev. Bill Strehlow, 33, pastor of a Lutheran Church of American congregation at Norco in Southern California and the Rev. Karen Bloomquist, 27, pastor of an American Lutheran congregation at Oakland.

"We want to maintain our separate jurisdictional identities as part of our commitment to Lutheran unity," she said. They'll see each other about once every two weeks, with help of commuter airlines.

The Rev. Mr. Knutson of the Harvey, Ill., church, whose wife until recently was pastor of Faith Lutheran Church in neighboring Homewood, Ill., says the long hours of separate ministries don't detract from personal ties.

"We found we were home at about the same times and gone at about the same times," he says, adding that maintaining family life is no harder in such a case than when a pastor is married to a partner working in some different profession.

However, being in the same vocation has an advantage, he says, making for deepened "understanding of what each of us is involved in and of the demands and pressure on us. We found this very helpful."

The Prayer

THE BIBLE
No. 202. Mordecai Learns of the Plot To Kill All Jews

Haman persuaded King Ahasuerus to grant him permission to slay all of the Jewish people in the empire. So direly did Haman wish revenge upon Mordecai, he offered to pay 10,000 talents of silver into the treasury to pay for the purge.

Thus, the decree went out, and was posted in every province so the people could stand ready. When Mordecai learned what had been done, he rent his clothes, put on sackcloth and ashes, and went out into the city outside the palace gate, crying with a loud and bitter wail. When Esther learned of Mordecai's plight, she was grieved, and sent raiment, but he refused it.

Mordecai sent word to Esther by Hatach of the plot of Haman "...Also he gave him the copy...of the decree that was given Shushan to destroy them, to show it unto Esther, and to declare it unto her, and to charge her that she should go in unto the king, to make supplication unto him, and to make request before him for her people." # Clergy couples multiplying in some churches

NEW YORK (AP) — A new kind of ministerial team — the clergy couple — is multiplying among American Protestant churches and seems destined to become a familiar arrangement.

With the current upsurge of women training in the nation's seminaries and with many of them marrying male seminarians, the prospect was strong for a growing corp of 3husband-and-wife ministerial partnerships.

"It's the coming thing," says the Rev. Thomas Knutson, pastor of First Lutheran Church in Harvey, Ill. His wife, Karen, also is an ordained Lutheran Khurch of America minister.

Recognizing such pairs as a swelling trend, the United Methodist Church's division of ordained ministry recently held its first conference about it, noting that 93 clergy couples now hold posts in the denomination.

Their joint vocation should be seen, not as a problem, but as "opportunities for new and creative ministry," 12 ordained couples participating in the meeting at Nashville, Tenn., said in a statement.

The wedded ministries have developed in most major Protestant denominations. A United Presbyterian assembly last year suggested congregations consider calling "husbands and wives who desire to serve as an ordained team in the same church."

Some of the couples do so, while others serve different parishes in the same geographical vicinity.

The couples-of-the cloth say there are some difficulties in their status, as well as advantages, including the added necessity of finding posts close together. They also cite the possibility of husband-wife competition if they work for the same congregation.

In California, pastors of churches at different ends of the state and in different Lutheran denominations were married in June, and continue to serve posts in different denominational and geographical settings.

They are the Rev. Bill Strehlow, 33, pastor of a Lutheran Church of American congregation at Norco in Southern California and the Rev. Karen Bloomquist, 27, pastor of an American Lutheran congregation at Oakland.

"We want to maintain our separate jurisdictional identities as part of our commitment to Lutheran unity," she said. They'll see each other about once every two weeks, with help of commuter airlines.

The Rev. Mr. Knutson of the Harvey, Ill., church, whose wife until recently was pastor of Faith Lutheran Church in neighboring Homewood, Ill., says the long hours of separate ministries don't detract from personal ties.

"We found we were home at about the same times and gone at about the same times," he says, adding that maintaining family life is no harder in such a case than when a pastor is married to a partner working in some different profession.

However, being in the same vocation has an advantage, he says, making for deepened "understanding of what each of us is involved in and of the demands and pressure on us. We found this very helpful."

The Prayer

"May God be gracious to us and bless us ... that thy way may be known upon earth." (Psalm 67: 1-2, RSV)

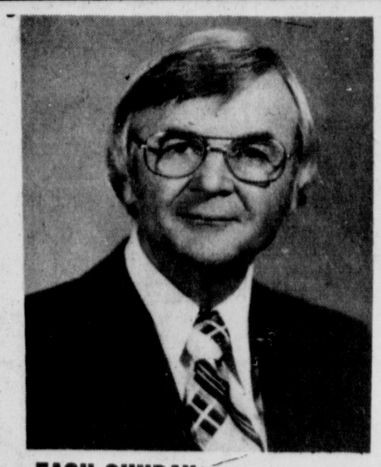

PRAYER: God of the nations, and of each person in all nations, free us from our bondage to self-interest. Show us Your vision for world peace. Amen.

THE BIBLE
No. 202. Mordecai Learns of the Plot To Kill All Jews

Haman persuaded King Ahasuerus to grant him permission to slay all of the Jewish people in the empire. So direly did Haman wish revenge upon Mordecai, he offered to pay 10,000 talents of silver into the treasury to pay for the purge.

Thus, the decree went out, and was posted in every province so the people could stand ready. When Mordecai learned what had been done, he rent his clothes, put on sackcloth and ashes, and went out into the city outside the palace gate, crying with a loud and bitter wail. When Esther learned of Mordecai's plight, she was grieved, and sent raiment, but he refused it.

Mordecai sent word to Esther by Hatach of the plot of Haman "...Also he gave him the copy...of the decree that was given Shushan to destroy them, to show it unto Esther, and to declare it unto her, and to charge her that she should go in unto the king, to make supplication unto him, and to make request before him for her people." # County court hears report of injury

BENTON — Scott County highway employe Claude Hatley told the County Court Thursday that he had received a letter from the law firm of Drumm and Stamp of Sikeston, informing him that Oneal Wimberly of Vanduser had been injured about three weeks ago by Hatley who was operating a road grader with bush hog machine attached.

The incident allegedly occurred July 31 on Marshall Road, south of Grant City.

Hatley said he had been talking with Wimberly, then went down the road about 200 feet before lowering the bush hog, machine, and noticed Wimberly standing by the mailbox across the road from where they had been talking.

On returning to the mailbox, Hatley noticed Wimberly bleeding above the eye and was told that an object was thrown by his machine, striking Wimberly.

The court took the matter under advisement.

Wayne Diamond, Scott County Highway Supervisor, told the court that a county truck which was struck and damaged Tuesday, morning would need a new hood and side mirror, he submitted two bids that had been received, they are: Sonny Presley Chevrolet, Sikeston, $721.25; and Slusher Inc., Sikeston, $695.70.

The court approved th Slusher bid.

Diamond said a bridge crossing Caney creek, east of Highway 77, between Chaffee and Oran, needs repairing. The court first said the bridge belonged to the Chaffee Special Road District, but in further studies learned that this bridge reverted back to the county March 12, 1969. The court then authorized Diamond to make the repairs.

A State Highway department official, Jerry Masterson, told the court he hoped the county would take on work on the Drury road ditch in Scott County.

This would make the county eligible for 70 per cent of federal funds not to exceed $40,021, available for projects on roads and bridges located in places where the populatrion is under 5,000.

Since this is long-term project, the county rejected the plan.

The court decided to look for another project which would make them eligible for the funds.

Mitchell Insurance Co. of Sikeston notified the court that the premium to insure the county for liability would be $30,000.

The court took the matter under advisement.

New launching ramp

After several years of planning and no action, Commerce finally has a concrete boat launching ramp. A new 75-foot ramp has been built through the efforts of Harold Kraft and Larry Hopper. Also, a road has been partially completed from Water Street down to the ramp. Further plans include a boat dock, bait shop and camping areas. the ramp is the only one open to the public between Cape Girardeau and Cairo, Ill., and will be open 24 hours a day. A small fee is charged for putting boats into the water from the ramp. (Daily standard photo)

Good communication important, C of C told

Good communication makes you money and makes for better efficiency, while poor communication will do the opposite, professor Bill Stacy told the Chamber of Commerce general membership at a meeting at noon Thursday at Two Tony's Smorgasbord.

Stacy is director of the speech department at Southeast Missouri State University and a private consultant on business communications.

Stacy said people often become confused because they use words one way and other people interpret those words another way. Many times in talk or writing, people stray away from the main idea they are trying to communicate, resulting in confusion as to what was meant.

Communications is a difficult concept, Stacy said, it is a continuing process, one that does not stop or start.

Stacy has been hired by several corporations and the United States Civil Service Department to conduct seminars on effective communications within their business structure.

'Missourians disappointed,' Litton says

By PAT GROJEAN

Missourians seem most concerned that neither Congress nor the administration has been willing or able to find a solution to the energy problem, Rep. Jerry Litton of Chillicothe said Thursday on a stop in Sikeston for the Sen. Lloyd Bentsen rally.

Litton was on his way home from a speaking engagement in Florida Tuesday. He said that his attendance at the rally "does not mean I am supporting him (Bentsen) anymore than his coming to my district meant he was supporting me."

The congressman said that in his travels he has found that Missourians are "frustrated, confused and disappointed that most politicians are more interested in votes in '76 than solutions in 1975."

He believes the solution to the energy problem lies somewhere between those proposals made by the President and proposals made by Congress. Spending money to find alternative energy sources and finding ways to discourage wasteful consumption of energy in nonessential areas where trhere is demand elasticity are two steps Litton believes must be taken toward solving the problem. As an example, he noted that if prices on one of the essential petroleum products, such as tractor fuel, rise it will only create more inflation, becaue farmers can not really cut down on consumption and still produce the country's food.

Litton also believes that people are unhappy that Congress spent 19 months and did not pass an energy bill and it only took 30 minutes to pass a pay raise.

The problem with the pay raise, Litton explained, is that the congressmen voted themselves an ongoing cost of living raise and not just a one-time raise. In doing this, they protected their salaries against inflation, he added, and while the American people may be hurt by future inflation, congressmen won't be. "I think this is a rip-off of taxpayers," he declared, "and an admission of defeat on the part of Congressmen. Litton believes Congressmen would have more of an incentive to do something about the conomic problem, if they felt pinched like most of the American people.

Litton noted that he voted against the pay increase and that the bill only passed by one vote.

On the grain export question, Litton said "longshoremen should stick to their ships. The country has to export something and can't continue to buy more than we are selling as we have in the past few years."

"There's not much wheat in bread anyway," Litton said, noting that when bread prices were going up, wheat prices were actually going down.

His big fear of the situation is if the railroad cars are not unloaded and returned to their proper places in time for harvest, there will be a shortage of cars for the corn harvest.

Although at this time he is supporting no particular candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, Litton said that if people will "compare the Democratic candidates to Ford and Rickefeller instead of to the best of what we had before (the best actions of Kennedy, Roosevelt or Truman), the Democrats will have a lot to offer."

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A rock 'n' roll radio station here temporarily threw a monkey wrench into an early Apollo moon mission.

An electronic device for the Apollo command module tested out fine at night, but unsatisfactory during the day. Then, for no apparent reason, the device was found to be working correctly again that evening. Day after day the phenomenon repeated itself, to the baffllement of Honeywell engineers doing the testing here.

The mysterious signal that was throwing off their tests, they finally discovered, came from a nearby radio station that was limited to daytime operation. When the station went off the air at sundown, so did its signal which interfered with the engineers' meter readings.

County court hears report of injury

BENTON — Scott County highway employe Claude Hatley told the County Court Thursday that he had received a letter from the law firm of Drumm and Stamp of Sikeston, informing him that Oneal Wimberly of Vanduser had been injured about three weeks ago by Hatley who was operating a road grader with bush hog machine attached.

The incident allegedly occurred July 31 on Marshall Road, south of Grant City.

Hatley said he had been talking with Wimberly, then went down the road about 200 feet before lowering the bush hog, machine, and noticed Wimberly standing by the mailbox across the road from where they had been talking.

On returning to the mailbox, Hatley noticed Wimberly bleeding above the eye and was told that an object was thrown by his machine, striking Wimberly.

The court took the matter under advisement.

Wayne Diamond, Scott County Highway Supervisor, told the court that a county truck which was struck and damaged Tuesday, morning would need a new hood and side mirror, he submitted two bids that had been received, they are: Sonny Presley Chevrolet, Sikeston, $721.25; and Slusher Inc., Sikeston, $695.70.

The court approved th Slusher bid.

Diamond said a bridge crossing Caney creek, east of Highway 77, between Chaffee and Oran, needs repairing. The court first said the bridge belonged to the Chaffee Special Road District, but in further studies learned that this bridge reverted back to the county March 12, 1969. The court then authorized Diamond to make the repairs.

A State Highway department official, Jerry Masterson, told the court he hoped the county would take on work on the Drury road ditch in Scott County.

This would make the county eligible for 70 per cent of federal funds not to exceed $40,021, available for projects on roads and bridges located in places where the populatrion is under 5,000.

Since this is long-term project, the county rejected the plan.

The court decided to look for another project which would make them eligible for the funds.

Mitchell Insurance Co. of Sikeston notified the court that the premium to insure the county for liability would be $30,000.

The court took the matter under advisement.

'Missourians disappointed,' Litton says

By PAT GROJEAN

Missourians seem most concerned that neither Congress nor the administration has been willing or able to find a solution to the energy problem, Rep. Jerry Litton of Chillicothe said Thursday on a stop in Sikeston for the Sen. Lloyd Bentsen rally.

Litton was on his way home from a speaking engagement in Florida Tuesday. He said that his attendance at the rally "does not mean I am supporting him (Bentsen) anymore than his coming to my district meant he was supporting me."

The congressman said that in his travels he has found that Missourians are "frustrated, confused and disappointed that most politicians are more interested in votes in '76 than solutions in 1975."

He believes the solution to the energy problem lies somewhere between those proposals made by the President and proposals made by Congress. Spending money to find alternative energy sources and finding ways to discourage wasteful consumption of energy in nonessential areas where trhere is demand elasticity are two steps Litton believes must be taken toward solving the problem. As an example, he noted that if prices on one of the essential petroleum products, such as tractor fuel, rise it will only create more inflation, becaue farmers can not really cut down on consumption and still produce the country's food.

Litton also believes that people are unhappy that Congress spent 19 months and did not pass an energy bill and it only took 30 minutes to pass a pay raise.

The problem with the pay raise, Litton explained, is that the congressmen voted themselves an ongoing cost of living raise and not just a one-time raise. In doing this, they protected their salaries against inflation, he added, and while the American people may be hurt by future inflation, congressmen won't be. "I think this is a rip-off of taxpayers," he declared, "and an admission of defeat on the part of Congressmen. Litton believes Congressmen would have more of an incentive to do something about the conomic problem, if they felt pinched like most of the American people.

Litton noted that he voted against the pay increase and that the bill only passed by one vote.

On the grain export question, Litton said "longshoremen should stick to their ships. The country has to export something and can't continue to buy more than we are selling as we have in the past few years."

"There's not much wheat in bread anyway," Litton said, noting that when bread prices were going up, wheat prices were actually going down.

His big fear of the situation is if the railroad cars are not unloaded and returned to their proper places in time for harvest, there will be a shortage of cars for the corn harvest.

Although at this time he is supporting no particular candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, Litton said that if people will "compare the Democratic candidates to Ford and Rickefeller instead of to the best of what we had before (the best actions of Kennedy, Roosevelt or Truman), the Democrats will have a lot to offer."

New launching ramp

After several years of planning and no action, Commerce finally has a concrete boat launching ramp. A new 75-foot ramp has been built through the efforts of Harold Kraft and Larry Hopper. Also, a road has been partially completed from Water Street down to the ramp. Further plans include a boat dock, bait shop and camping areas. the ramp is the only one open to the public between Cape Girardeau and Cairo, Ill., and will be open 24 hours a day. A small fee is charged for putting boats into the water from the ramp. (Daily standard photo)

Good communication important, C of C told

Good communication makes you money and makes for better efficiency, while poor communication will do the opposite, professor Bill Stacy told the Chamber of Commerce general membership at a meeting at noon Thursday at Two Tony's Smorgasbord.

Stacy is director of the speech department at Southeast Missouri State University and a private consultant on business communications.

Stacy said people often become confused because they use words one way and other people interpret those words another way. Many times in talk or writing, people stray away from the main idea they are trying to communicate, resulting in confusion as to what was meant.

Communications is a difficult concept, Stacy said, it is a continuing process, one that does not stop or start.

Stacy has been hired by several corporations and the United States Civil Service Department to conduct seminars on effective communications within their business structure.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A rock 'n' roll radio station here temporarily threw a monkey wrench into an early Apollo moon mission.

An electronic device for the Apollo command module tested out fine at night, but unsatisfactory during the day. Then, for no apparent reason, the device was found to be working correctly again that evening. Day after day the phenomenon repeated itself, to the bafflement of Honeywell engineers doing the testing here.

The mysterious signal that was throwing off their tests, they finally discovered, came from a nearby radio station that was limited to daytime operation. When the station went off the air at sundown, so did its signal which interfered with the engineers' meter readings.

THE WOODSHED SPECIAL

Now days we have Cosmetic Centers
Dentist Offices and Supermarkets,
All conveniently located in a plaza.
Would you believe we also had these in the old days?
Perhaps they were not visibly seen
but they definitely existed,
One wrong word and all three materialized in the woodshed, where you got a Facial,
your Teeth Extracted,
and a Rump Roast.

The number of bank failures mounted steeply during the great Depression. On March 4, 1933, the morning of Roosevelt's inauguration as President, states had closed most of their banks. On March 6, FDR declared a national bank holiday for four days. By Congressional action within two months more than 12,000 banks, with 90 per cent of the country's bank deposits, were back in action.

Bloomfield plans school dance Tuesday

BLOOMFIELD — A back to school dance will kick off the five-day Bloomfield homecoming celebration at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the City Park. Music will be provided by Manassa Sound System of Cape Girardeau.

Bluff City Shows will provide rides and amusement booths on the midway, and other entertainment is planned for each day of the Jaycee-sponsored event.

The Bloomfield High School band will present a concert in the park Wednesday and the annual homecoming parade is scheduled at 5:30 p.m. Thursday. The parade will start on North Prairie Street and wind up at the City Park. Participating in the parade will be 10-12 bands and flotts.

A gospel singing group will perform Friday in the park, and a matinee will be held Saturday, when carnival rides will be reduced in price for children.

The Jaycees will conduct a drawing Saturday night, with a couch, television and other items to be given away.

Barbecue scheduled

CHARLESTON — Area residents will again be able to satisfy their taste for old-fashioned barbeque Monday when the Knights of Columbus host their 21st annual labor day barbeque.

Willie Hart, grand knight, is serving as chairman of the event again this year and will be on hand to supervise the procedures when the meat is put on open pits early Sunday. After roasting and basting throughout the day and all night the meat will go on sale at Sunrise Monday.

Pork, ribs and chicken will be available by by the sandwich or pound at the K.C. hall, Sixth and Danforth Streets.

This event and the annual fourth of July bar-b-que are the organization's main money raising projects for their various community benefit programs throughout the year.

HELICOPTER BECOMES BIRD OF ALL TRADES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The helicopter has become a valuable aircraft because of the energy crisis.

The National Geographic Society says a survey shows that the whirlybird is in demand by oil and coal companies.

It also ranges far beyond coal and petroleum fields to perform mercy missions, herd livestock, dust crops, control traffic, fight crime, fight forest fires, reseed forests, stock fish in remote lakes and streams and aid in pollution-control projects.

Helicopters fly regular pollution patrols over places like San Francisco Bay.

But helicopters are also taking the place of the cattle rustler and his horse or truck. Not long ago, a whirlybird swooped out of the sky and spirited away a number of large hogs.

The first helicopter destined for useful work was not seen publicly until an early Sikorsky model rose from Bridgeport, Conn., in 1942 for delivery to the U.S. Army Air Corps. It mystified onlookers on its 600-mile maiden voyage. One startled air-raid spotter reported, "A windmill just flew by."

Bernie council to meet Sept. 9

BERNIE — The regular city council meeting scheduled for Monday has been postponed until Sept. 9, due to the Labor Day holiday, according to City Clerk Maxine Foster.

Group to sing Sunday night

The Rev. Lew Rhodes and the Masters IV will present a gospel singing program at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Salcedo Baptist Church, located about four miles west of town on Route Y, according to the Rev. Watis R. Harrell, pastor.

Ward, 27, of St. Louis, were killed. Their bodies were taken to Safe-Way Ambulance Service in Poplar Bluff.

A Campbell man was killed in a one-car accident at 9 p.m. Thursday on Route H six miles northwest of Malden.

The accident occurred when a northbound pickup truck driven by Dennis Carroll Hickson, 21, of Campbell Route One ran off the road at a high rate of speed on a curve and traveled down a steep ditch for 264 feet before overturning.

Hickson was killed in the accident. His body was taken to the morgue at Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

A Steele woman received minor injuries in a single- car accident at 9:15 p.m. Thursday on an unmarked blacktop road off Highway 164 one mile east of Steele.

The accident occurred when a westbound car driven by Jackie West, 29, of Steel ran off the blacktop road on a curve leading into Highway 164 and struck a concrete culvert.

She was taken to Pemiscot County Medical Center at Hayti.

didn't work. We did buy our own 'pied piper' suits as a community service since we feel sure our services will be in great demand after this."

Another person suggested that cats be borrowed from the humane society to rid the area of rats and then captured and returned to society, therby saving themselves from being put to death.

This person signed the letter, "A Citizen of Lutesville," shunning any personal glory for her plan, as did the county agency which allegedly charged the flutes to the county.

The Lutesville citizen also suggested sprinkling cayenne pepper into the rat holes.

Health care to be topic of meeting

The National Health Planning and Resources Development Act will be the topic of discussion at the annual dinner meeting of the Southeast Division of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare at 6:30 pm. Sept. 11 in the Ramada Inn, Highway 62 East.

William C. Mitchell, director of special services in the Department of Social Services, will discuss the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act and its implication for Missouri citizens. The act has been called one of the most far-reaching pieces of health legislation ever to emerge from Congress.

It is designed to improve the nation's health care delivery system by reducing unnecessary and duplicative costs through an adequate planning system. The law, in effect, creates five mandatory health planning agencies in Missouri which are responsible for preparing an areawide health plan and reviewing and approving all federal health funds spent in the area.

Suit filed to repeal ordinances

BLOOMFIELD—Suit was filed in Circuit Court Thursday morning by Ruth Webb, in behalf of Flamingo Lounge and The Dexter Pool Hall, against the City of Dexter: Mayor Willis Conner, Aldermen William Nelson, Doran Vancil, Jack Smarr, Eldon Cooper, James Williams and Les Day and police chiefs James Teeters and Ralph Clark.

The Attorney for the plaintiff stated that his clients wished to secure repeal of three ordinances, Bill 991, dated March 20, 1933; Bill 990, dated March 20, 1933; and Bill 1070, dated Jan. 20, 1936.

The first count is to enjoin the city from enforcing the license on dance halls, the second count to enjoin the city from enforcing the prohibiting of dancing on Sundays and the third count to stop the city from enforcing the ordinance of not playing pool past midnight and on Sundays.

Gun stolen from home

BENTON — Donna Gates, Grant City, reported that someone broke into her home sometime Wednesday and stole a 16-gauge single-barreled shotgun.

The Scott County Sheriff's Department is investigating the burglary. No other items were reported missing.

BRASS SOCIETY STARTS WITH 4,000

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Formation of the International Brass Society was accomplished at a recent meeting at the Indiana University School of Music here.

Completing the organization, with nearly 4,000 members, were representatives of the International Horn Society, the International Trumpet Guild, the International Trombone Assn. and the Tubists Universal Brotherhood Assn.

Tax commission to discuss work

BLOOMFIELD — A representative from the Missouri State Tax Commission will be at the Stoddard County Courthouse at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 17 to discuss matters pertaining to duties of the tax commission and county officials.

According to state law, the tax commission is required annually to send representatives to meet with township assessors, the County Court and other interested county officials.

County Clerk John Marvin Capps said the tax commission has accepted the final figures on assessed valuation for Stoddard County.

The valuation of the county has been set at $42,415,269 for real estate and $9,780,051 for tangible personal property and $52,195,320 total.

Windows broken out at school

DEXTER — Three windows were broken at the Dexter High School gymnasium sometime Thursday night, police said today.

No other damage was reported.

The National Health Planning and Resources Development Act will be the topic of discussion at the annual dinner meeting of the Southeast Division of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare at 6:30 pm. Sept. 11 in the Ramada Inn, Highway 62 East.

William C. Mitchell, director of special services in the Department of Social Services, will discuss the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act and its implication for Missouri citizens. The act has been called one of the most far-reaching pieces of health legislation ever to emerge from Congress.

It is designed to improve the nation's health care delivery system by reducing unnecessary and duplicative costs through an adequate planning system. The law, in effect, creates five mandatory health planning agencies in Missouri which are responsible for preparing an areawide health plan and reviewing and approving all federal health funds spent in the area.

Suit filed to repeal ordinances

BLOOMFIELD—Suit was filed in Circuit Court Thursday morning by Ruth Webb, in behalf of Flamingo Lounge and The Dexter Pool Hall, against the City of Dexter: Mayor Willis Conner, Aldermen William Nelson, Doran Vancil, Jack Smarr, Eldon Cooper, James Williams and Les Day and police chiefs James Teeters and Ralph Clark.

The Attorney for the plaintiff stated that his clients wished to secure repeal of three ordinances, Bill 991, dated March 20, 1933; Bill 990, dated March 20, 1933; and Bill 1070, dated Jan. 20, 1936.

The first count is to enjoin the city from enforcing the license on dance halls, the second count to enjoin the city from enforcing the prohibiting of dancing on Sundays and the third count to stop the city from enforcing the ordinance of not playing pool past midnight and on Sundays.

Gun stolen from home

BENTON — Donna Gates, Grant City, reported that someone broke into her home sometime Wednesday and stole a 16-gauge single-barreled shotgun.

The Scott County Sheriff's Department is investigating the burglary. No other items were reported missing.

Tax commission to discuss work

BLOOMFIELD — A representative from the Missouri State Tax Commission will be at the Stoddard County Courthouse at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 17 to discuss matters pertaining to duties of the tax commission and county officials.

According to state law, the tax commission is required annually to send representatives to meet with township assessors, the County Court and other interested county officials.

County Clerk John Marvin Capps said the tax commission has accepted the final figures on assessed valuation for Stoddard County.

The valuation of the county has been set at $42,415,269 for real estate and $9,780,051 for tangible personal property and $52,195,320 total.

Windows broken out at school

DEXTER — Three windows were broken at the Dexter High School gymnasium sometime Thursday night, police said today.

No other damage was reported.
